Thousands Flee Before Flood

Oklahoma City's Municipal Reservoir Gives Way—Rising Rivers Cause Heavy Material Loss

Farms Inundated; Homes Destroyed

Advance Warning Saves Five Thousand Persons Living in Course of Descending Waters—Heavy Rains

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 15.—The west bank of the municipal dam, ten miles west of here, housing the city's reserve water supply, gave way under the pressure of the swollen North Canadian River late tonight, releasing a raging seven-foot deep torrent to augment the already disastrous overflow of the stream. Five thousand persons living in the lowlands here, an area comprising approximately 117 city blocks, fled for their lives when warned of the approach of the floods. The overflow is expected to reach the city within a few hours.

Swedes Over Farms

Breaking through the embankment after rising five feet in five minutes, the water swept over fertile lands and struck an entirely new course in its rush southward. About a mile farther downstream the torrent is believed to have turned back into the river.

Government gauges show the rapidly rising water at twenty-three feet, nine feet over flood stage and several feet above the disastrous tide of four years ago.

Rivers and streams, swollen by rains that have fallen virtually without intermission since Friday morning, were sweeping southward, carrying on their foaming crests bridges, houses, and other property that had been caught in the current.

Heavy Damage

The North and South Canadian River, the Washita, the north fork of the Red River—all are spreading destruction that is estimated already in the billions of dollars.

Reports from Canton indicated that the river had straightened its course, sweeping through farm lands heretofore supposed to be immune from flood.

Pacific Northwest Millworkers Seek to Link Up This Province With Their Organization

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15.—Mutual problems of planning mill men were discussed at the first international convention, embracing the members of the Pacific Northwest Millworkers' Association and the B.C. Woodworkers' Association, here tonight. A business session, adjourned by a banquet and dance.

One of the principal events of the gathering was the extending of an invitation from the Pacific Northwest Millworkers' Association to the B.C. Association to affiliate with their organization, which embraces the planning mill men of Oregon and Washington.

Clark W. Thompson, of Tacoma, president; E. C. Bullock, of Portland, secretary; and G. A. Brown, treasurer, of the American Association, took a prominent part in the convention. The banquet was attended by 120 mill-owners and their wives.

RENEW EXPLORATION OF PHARAOH'S TOMB

Mr. Carter Prepares to Further Search for Treasure in King Tutankhamen's Resting Place

LUXOR, Oct. 14.—King Tutankhamen's eternal sleep will again be disturbed next Wednesday, when an army of Egyptian laborers, under the direction of Lord Carter and other archaeological experts, will remove the temporary steel door from the opening of the tomb.

The remains of the Pharaoh lie beneath the great pile of earth and stone which the excavators threw up to shield the sovereign's last resting place from the grave robbers who abided within the Valley of Kings as they did 3,000 years ago.

It will take a week or more to remove this enormous covering, the weight of which probably amounts to thousands of tons. When King Tutankhamen's mortuary chamber is reopened, Mr. Carter will widen the entrance to the Tomb of Kings and utilize it for storage of the precious antiquities removed from Tutankhamen's tomb close by.

FIVE LOGGERS DIE IN FOREST BLAZE

MARQUETTE, Mich., Oct. 15.—Five loggers were burned to death today in a forest fire near Birch, Michigan. Telephone lines between Marquette and the copper country have been severed, due to the fire, and little information was obtainable. Crews of men to go to the fire are being organized here.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 15.—Two men were shot and a total of five captured when police opened fire with a riot gun in a midnight raid on what was declared to be a burglar's nest in the heart of the city.

DEMANDS BRITAIN FULFIL MANDATE

JEWISH AUTHOR CRITICIZES POLICY IN PALESTINE

Asserts Her Efforts Prevent Jews Securing National Home There While Favoring the Arabs

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—A resolution by the American Jewish Congress insisting that the British government make good its promise to Palestine he carried out will do more towards making the Jewish national home a fact than any other possible act, Isaac Zangwill asserted at a luncheon at the second session here tonight.

"England," he said, "respects United States opinion and wants United States co-operation to restore peace. I am willing to meet a committee and draw up the resolution. I suggest in order to impress the British Government."

Attacks Britain

In his address today, attacked the British administration of Palestine under the mandate, and said it was developing Palestine for the Arabs.

At the risk of loss of popularity, money and even a market for my plays, I am here to get justice for the Jew, regardless of consequences."

In Palestine the trouble today, outside a weak British governor, is the fact that the Arabs understand politics and the Jews do not, because he has lost contact with nations, particularly through 1,000 years absence from Palestine.

Mr. Zangwill attacked Sir Herbert Samuel, Governor of Palestine, as a man too weak to carry out the mandate, and said the mandate had specifically demanded that the British devolve the Jewish national land, or quit.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 15.—Of the forty-eight jurors required for the Assize Court, which opens today, twelve or thirteen will be women. Should any of those on the original summonses fail to appear, women substitutes will be obtained as far as possible, Sheriff Macdonald said.

There are nineteen cases on the list for trial, including three murder charges. Mr. Justice Gregory will preside.

EMPIRE DEFENCE PREMIER'S TOPIC

Imperial Conference Hears Outline of Britain's Problem in Defending the Scattered Dominions

DEFINITE PROPOSALS NOT YET PRESENTED

Canadian Ministers Hold They Cannot Commit Dominion to Any Plan—Parliament Must Pass Upon Policy

LONDON, Oct. 15.—With Premier Stanley Baldwin presiding and no fewer than six other members of his cabinet attending, in addition to the representatives from the overseas Dominions, the Imperial Conference this afternoon commenced consideration of the problem of the Empire defence.

The official communiqué issued to-night ironically observes "that the preceding sessions were confined to the problem of Imperial defence. Following a statement by Lord Salisbury, Lord President of the Council, the conference decided that the view of the situation is "the subject under discussion, the proceedings should not be made public."

Reviews Situation

Although the official communiqué gives no indication, it is understood that the statement by the Marquess of Salisbury, who spoke as chairman of the Imperial Defence Committee, was the signal for the members of the committee to begin their consideration of the defence conditions. He touched on naval defence, making some reference to Singapore, but leaving the main problem of naval defence to Col. L. C. Amery, First Lord of the Admiralty, who will address the conference on Wednesday.

The discussion, subsequent to Lord Salisbury's statement, is understood to have been of general character, no definite Empire defence proposals having been submitted. Should definite proposals involving action by the Dominions be presented, it is expected that the attitude of the Canadian members will be that they have no authority to bind Canada one way or the other, that the question is essentially one for decision by the Dominion Parliament.

Ministers' Position

The Canadian Ministers here are opposed to the view which is obtaining in certain quarters that the conference is a continuation of the Imperial war cabinet. They take the view that they are here merely as representatives of Canada, empowered only to confer with representatives of other governments in the Empire. The conference possesses none of a cabinet's executive functions, and that therefore any new defense proposals must be submitted to parliament before Canada's attitude can be determined.

The second session tomorrow evening, after the conference has taken up the question of technical research, then that of inter-Imperial shipping and communications generally.

TRUSTEES WILL MEET AT DUNCAN

THREE-DAY CONVENTION WILL OPEN TODAY

Delegates From Various Parts of the Province Gathering—Victoria to Be Represented

The twentieth annual convention of the British Columbia School Trustees' Association will open this morning at Duncan and continue for three days, with the president, Mr. J. Hartwood, in the chair.

The sessions will open this morning at the Odd Fellows Hall, when the delegates from various parts of the Province will be welcomed; President Hartwood will give his address, committees will be appointed, and announcements made.

Other reports will be heard this afternoon and tomorrow morning, and the technical session, Mr. J. G. Parker, principal of the Technical School, Vancouver, will deliver an address on Technical Education and What It Leads To.

On Wednesday afternoon there is to be an automobile drive under the auspices of the Duncan Board of Trade, and in the evening a community banquet and concert will take place. Further reports will be dealt with on Thursday, officers being elected in the afternoon.

The Victoria School Board is to be represented by Thomas Beckwith, and probably Trustee Birrell as well, the latter being named by the board yesterday afternoon to replace Trustee Jay, who is unable to attend.

ST. The two met at a private dinner here.

The Lloyd George party left at 1:10 p.m. on a special train for the East.

DESPAIRS OF FUTURE UNLESS AMERICA ACTS

Mr. Lloyd George at Minneapolis Makes Strong Appeal to United States to Cast Her Influence Into the Scale of Peace in Europe—Has Great Moral Command

Urge Remembrance of Lessons of Great War

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 15.—An appeal for the United States to help Europe make peace was made here today by David Lloyd George, the wartime Premier of Great Britain, in his first public address in this country after concluding his tour of Canada.

Speaking before many hundreds of persons at a luncheon given by the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association, the former Premier said:

"I am not here on any mission, but let me say to you one thing, that until the United States of America, with its mighty influence, with its great power, with the moral command which it has over the world, because of its past, with the great claim that you won by coming into the war without any self purpose but for a holy idea, sending millions of your best young men across to fight for liberty and for nothing else—until that great land casts its influence into the scale of peace, I despair of the future."

Urge Remembrance

Referring to a statement that Americans were doing their best to forget the recent war, he urged that they do not forget.

"There is nothing," he said, "for you to forget—nothing. There is something for you to be proud of. You came for nought at the call of a great purpose and a great ideal. It ought to be remembered that the year you took part in this war is the year of your greatest traditions. And my last word is so far from forgetting that part, I trust that the United States of America will once more, in due time, in its own way, cast its strength and its influence into the scale of peace."

Mr. Schwenglers has been an indefatigable worker at all times for the stability of the city. No better friend of Victoria can be found, and he has the quality of persistency which should make him a most valuable leader in the progress of the city.

When Schwenglers came to Victoria today if he wished to make a statement on assuming office, he replied, "Only this: There never has been a time when more matters of importance were under negotiation by the people than is carried on in a successful issue, and will have reached results on the future growth and prosperity of the city. If some of these reach fruition, I hope that in our success we shall not forget the great part that the late Mr. Cross played in the work, and that a very considerable part of the success will be due to the effort and energy of which he gave so freely. I do not think that anyone is fulfilling their full duty of citizenship unless they become a member of our organization and lend their help and assistance, that they be given to do the best for the organization and to be patient, and good results will follow. If it is realized that the citizens are right behind the work of the body. Unity is strength and our opportunity of success will be greatly augmented if all realize that the entire city is bracing us up and getting behind the work of the institution."

Mr. B. C. Nicholas was unanimously elected vice-president of the chamber to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Schwenglers' resignation as president, and Mr. A. J. Watson, manager of the Victoria store of the Hudson's Bay Company, was chosen to fill the vacancy on the board of directors.

Many letters from British Columbians, Pacific Coast residents and individuals, expressing sympathy with the chamber and paying high tribute to the late president, Mr. C. T. Cross, were read.

Afterwards, Mr. Schwenglers addressed the audience in a speech in which he referred to the "war" as a savage, barbarous conflict for generations. You are welding them into one people, living with the same national hearthstone by the great national fire."

Speaking of his pleasure at visiting the Middle West, he said, "I am from a troubled continent," he continued; "This continent is at peace. I crossed the frontier last night—the most remarkable frontier in the world—without forts and guns or soldiers to be sent to protect it. The frontiers of poor Europe bristle with the mechanism for slaughter. Yours is the continent of peace, and, in God's name, keep it the continent of peace."

"There are races here which have been in constant opposition, and a savage, barbarous conflict for generations. You are welding them into one people, living with the same national hearthstone by the great national fire."

Speaking of his pleasure at visiting the Middle West, he said, "I am from a troubled continent," he continued; "This continent is at peace. The frontiers of poor Europe bristle with the mechanism for slaughter. Yours is the continent of peace, and, in God's name, keep it the continent of peace."

"During the war," he added, "whenever we wanted to know something about the United States they used to say, 'Well, depend on the Middle West,' and if I would ask anything they said 'Hush, you must not say that, otherwise the Middle West will hear it.' If we asked for something, they said: 'You can't have it, the Middle West wants it.' So I was very anxious to see what the Middle West was like."

The distinguished visitor was welcomed by huge crowds at the station. On the way to his hotel thousands crowded the streets and greeted him with applause as he was escorted on a sight-seeing trip. This evening he went to a party for a private dinner at

The Living Voice of CARUSO—and all the Paganini of Song of AIDA
"His Master's Voice"
Victor Record No. 6694

The Theatre of the Home

The stage is set, the performers ready. Your mood this evening calls for the inspiring strains of Verdi. Suddenly you hear Caruso singing "Celeste Aida"—(Heavenly Aida)—clear, sweet, vibrant, real as life itself. For the moment you sit in an orchestra seat at the opera—with all its pomp and pageantry.

Then perhaps you long for the sweet strains of "The Last Rose of Summer"—and as the soft clear notes of Elman's violin sound in your ears, you can all but see him draw his bow across the magic strings.

But whether it be Caruso, or Elman, or the boom of Sousa's band, or the latest happy-go-lucky dance hit—"HIS MASTER'S VOICE" Victrola and "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" VICTOR Records prove their superiority by making you forget the man-made reproduction and remember only the sensation of having living artists and real musical instruments—a few feet beyond the chair in which you sit.

And by virtue of such masterly performance—"HIS MASTER'S VOICE" Victrola is the standard by which all instruments are judged. Often this causes many to refer to all instruments as Victrolas but for your own best interests as well as ours, remember there is only one real genuine Victrola—and that bears our famous trade-mark—"HIS MASTER'S VOICE" under the lid. Be very careful to see that it is on the instrument you buy.

Genuine "His Master's Voice"
Victrolas from $37.50 to $615.00

HIS MASTER'S VOICE, LIMITED

Why "HIS MASTER'S VOICE"
VICTROLA dominates!

The Victrola goose-neck supports the sound box, allowing it full play. It takes the weight off the needle point, making for flexibility and consequently produces that unequalled "sound" which is found in "HIS MASTER'S VOICE". Victrola is pre-eminent; at the same time preserving the record from wear because of the very light weight pressure upon the needle. This is but one of the many features which combine to make "HIS MASTER'S VOICE" Victrola incomparably best.

PRINCE ENJOYED CANADIAN VISIT

DELIGHTED WITH HIS TRIP,
SAYS HEIR TO THRONE

Given Enthusiastic Send-Off on His Return to England

QUEBEC, Oct. 15.—"Je suis enchanté! I have been delighted with my trip to Canada," said Lord Ranfray just before the Empress of France carried her royal passenger and his suite away from the dock at Quebec on Saturday afternoon.

Lord Ranfray looked very fit as he stood on the deck smoking a cigarette and chatting with members of his retinue. Just as the ship pulled out of the pier a crowd raised tremendous Canadian cheers for him. For a moment Lord Ranfray and his son again the Prince of Wales, and in his royal character as heir to the British throne, received the homage and expressions of good will from the officers and crew of the big liner.

Ever since the Prince signified his willingness to drop his intended course of the ship had been busy preparing for his arrival and certainly no vessel in the port of Quebec was ever more shipshape than the Empress when the Prince ascended the gangway.

Shortly after 2 o'clock the students of Lawnsdale Institute marched in a body to the wharf and gave three cheers for the Prince, who stepped to the side of the ship and saluted them. This mark of good will on the part of the students of Canada's oldest French-Canadian institute of learning was much appreciated by the Prince.

ANGORA TO REMAIN CAPITAL OF TURKEY

ANGORA, Oct. 15.—The Turkish Nationalist Assembly yesterday voted to retain Angora as the capital of Turkey.

R. Fielding, acting-Premier, on behalf of the Government.

Mr. Fielding has today received the following reply, dated from Father P. O'Farrell:

"I greatly appreciate good wishes which you sent me on behalf of the Government. I need not tell you again how much I have enjoyed my visit, and only regret it was so short. Accept my regards."

Accept My Regards

LONDON, Oct. 15.—It is understood that the Prince of Wales has accepted the office of visitor of the British Institute of International Affairs. Shortly after his return to England from Canada, the Prince will accept a historic mansion in Westminster, presented to the British Empire by two Canadians, whose identity has not yet disclosed, as a home for the institute.

The institute was founded in 1919 by members of the peace delegation at the Paris conference. The membership includes some 800 persons, representing all parties and including officials, and it is open to British subjects and students of foreign affairs. Its objects are research and the issuance of publications which will enable public men throughout the Empire to follow the course of foreign affairs and by study and mutual instruction to equip themselves as guides of public opinion.

The institute is debarred by its constitution from propaganda. It can neither formulate nor advocate policies. Lord Curzon, Earl Grey, Viscount Grey of Fallside, Lord Robert Cecil, Mr. Lloyd George, and Mr. J. E. Clynes, M.P., Labour leader, are at the head of the institute.

In addition to the building, the donors have given £8,000 as the nucleus of an endowment fund.

OTTAWA PAPER HIGHLIGHTS OF CONSERVATIVE CHANGES

Says Ontario Premier Being Groomed for Chieftain to Take Place of Hon. Mr. Meighen

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—It may sound absurd, but the opinion is being expressed even within the ranks of the Conservative party that Premier Howard Ferguson, of Ontario, may be the next Premier of Canada, says The Citizen, editorially today.

More than the purchase of ice cream for the little Quebecers will be required of Mr. Ferguson before he can break the solid sixty-five years of Conservative rule in the House. But it is quite possible that with the assistance of Mr. Robert Rogers and the memorizing of one speech in the French language he might command himself as a likely winner to the commissionership department of the Conservative party in Montreal.

General Carter Mentioned

"Sir Arthur Currie's name is sometimes mentioned, but Sir Arthur gives no hint of being ambitious to lead party cohorts with a wooden sword in the cardboard battle of politics."

The Citizen continues: "There are leaders who are hunting to discover who the new leader for the Dominion premiership would perhaps be ready of use to Canada if they were to relieve Mr. Meighen of his present position. As Conservative party leader, he is lost to the country. He has talents and courage that would be of great service to the Canadian people. He could be a great public career in Meighen as a national leader, however, if he were to make the break with reaction himself, rather than wait until the schemers displace him."

PURCHASES BIG LONDON DAILIES

LORD BEAVERBROOK SECURES CONTROL OF PAPERS

Evening Standard and Pall Mall Gazette Have Been Acquired by Canadian Nobleman

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Lord Beaverbrook's purchase of The Evening Standard and The Pall Mall Gazette marks the passing of another landmark in the journalism of Victorian London. The Evening Standard was the brother of The Morning Standard, a newspaper for which the great statesman, Lord Salisbury, used to write editorials in his early days, and which, at one time, held an influence hardly surpassed by The Times.

The morning paper began to lose ground soon after the rise of the Harmsworth press, and disappeared for good some little time after the war opened.

The Evening Standard meanwhile had been acquired by the Hulton firm of newspaper owners, who very recently renamed it and, for some years now, it has put up a creditable showing against the popularity of the Rothermere Evening News in the affection of the London public.

Checkered Career

The Pall Mall Gazette, since the days when John Morley was editor, has had an even more checkered existence, having changed hands several times. A man on one hand, The Globe, an evening paper with a history reaching back to the early years of Queen Victoria's reign, was amalgamated with it. Its recent proprietor, Sir John Leigh, has held the proprietorship for about three years. It originated from the cotton district of Lancashire, and it is understood that he acquired the paper in order that it may remain true to the enunciation of Unionist principles.

It is stated that Lord Beaverbrook has purchased The Daily Gazette, which will be edited by The Evening Standard. Lord Beaverbrook has just completed the purchase of The Evening Standard from Sir Edward Hutton, as well as The Daily Sketch and The Sunday Herald, all London publications.

The Pall Mall Gazette, which now exists as a separate entity, was founded in 1845 and was intended then to realize Thackeray's picture in Pendennis of one "written by gentlemen for gentlemen."

CHINA CONCURS IN DIPLOMATS' DEMANDS

Finally Takes Action in Connection With Bandit Outrages—Military Governor Dismissed

PEKING, Oct. 15.—China's reply to the demands of the diplomatic corps regarding the Linchhen bandit outrage, delivered to the legations today, renews the former unprotesting attitude of the Peking Government toward some of the demands.

The latest note meets in large measure the stipulations demanded by the powers to provide greater security for foreigners.

The Chinese Government has issued a mandate dismissing from office Tschou Tsien (military governor) of Ching Tung, who was instrumental in the Linchhen bandit uprising last May, when they held up an express train and kidnapped numerous foreigners. This dispense of one moot point in the negotiations.

China had previously declined the right of the foreign nations to demand the punishment of officials deemed culpable.

The new Chinese communication agrees in principle to the supplementary indemnities asked by the foreign powers, but does not commit the government to the railway guard scheme or the organization under foreign supervision, proposed by Peking.

Peking expresses appreciation of the readiness of the diplomats to collaborate in the suppression of banditry.

Officers Declared to Be in State of Insubordination—Refuse to Collect Land Tax

LONDON, Oct. 15.—An anonymous correspondent of The Morning Post alleges that a dangerous crisis exists in the Free State army.

The statement to which the newspaper refers says that the Free State army has for months past been in a state of absolute cleavage from the top to the bottom of the army, but now that some of the principal officers have been court-martialed, a number have come out in open insubordination, if not rebellion, against the government.

The correspondent asserts that Minister of Home Affairs Sir H. G. Wilson insists upon extreme measures and the removal of the mutinous officers, but that they cannot be punished for fear of the consequences to the government. Meanwhile, the troops will not act to enforce the collection of the seventy-five per cent arrears in taxes, for which the government has ordered collected within the next three weeks under the Land Act of 1922.

The writer concludes that the army is divided.

"Each side," he said, "feels confident that when the bell rings it will possess all the arms and ammunition."

The Morning Post is strongly Unionist and is hostile to the Free State Government.

GALT, Ont., Oct. 15.—Starting in a small garage fire late last night spread to the mosh and door factory operated by P. W. Gardiner & Sons, causing a loss estimated at between $200,000 and $300,000, covered by insurance.

The machine shop, the most important section of the plant, was saved. The plant of R. McDougall Company, adjoining, was damaged to reduce steadily and easily without going to extremes. Guns at Dardanelles Show Less Activity In Attack on Turks

First Lord Finds Unaccountable Slowing Up of War Vessels' Operations—Question of Abandoning Project Comes Up for Discussion—Lord Fisher's Change of Attitude

THE WORLD CRISIS: 1915

ARTICLE 8—DIFFICULTIES INCREASE

WHILE the attention of so many states, great and small, was riveted upon the Dardanelles, and while so many profound and far-reaching reactions were occurring over the whole field of war, the naval operations which had produced these great effects began to falter and to flag. From March 3 onwards the progress of Admiral Carden's attack became continually slower. The weather was frequently unsuitable to long-range firing, our seaplanes in those early days were neither numerous nor very efficient, the coordination of the gunnery and the observation, though based on sound principles, was in practice primitive through lack of experience. The mobile howitzers which began to fire in large numbers each day from both sides of the straits harassed the bombarding ships and forced them to keep on the move. Landing parties sent ashore by the British, French and Italian forces met with much stiffer resistance, and failed to reach the forts. The attempts to sweep up the minefields encountered considerable and increasing Turkish fire from field guns well directed by search lights. The mine-sweeping trawlers which had been provided for this service proved inadequate for so severe tasks. The ordeal was very trying to this erstwhile civilian personnel who, though familiar with mines, had never previously encountered artillery fire.

The forts were apparently silenced, but the Turks claim that they were reserving their ammunition for shorter ranges, and that they ceased firing to clear the guns of grit and debris thrown up by the exploded shells in their vicinity. The operations continued till the 12th with fits and starts, and tentative attempts to sweep the mine fields. During these days I began to doubt whether there was sufficient determination behind the attack.

By the middle of March we had therefore reached a turning point not only in the naval operations but in the whole enterprise. Hitherto no serious risks have been run, no losses have been sustained, and no important forces deeply engaged. The original Carden plan of gradual piecemeal attack had been pursued. It had not failed, but it is now evident that it was a waste of time to try a decisive victory would have been gained. But where were the admirals, generals and statesmen, who did not share these clear-cut conclusions, who had doubts had always had doubts—about the feasibility of the operation, about the margin of the grand fleet, about the margin of operations in the eastern theatre? Here surely was the time for Lord Fisher. He could may with perfect propriety and consistency, "We have given the Carden plan a good trial. I never liked it much. It has not come off; but it has been a very good demonstration; it has foiled the Turks; it has helped the Turks; it has cost us practically nothing—but it has not succeeded off altogether or turn to our advantage." Later on in April, when we were far more deeply committed, had suffered palpable loss and rebuff, and could not withdraw without great injury to our war prestige, suggestions of this kind were indeed made. But now it was certainly an arguable policy to close the account, and in naval terms it was the easiest thing in the world to do.

But what happened? So far from wishing to break off the operation, he insisted on its continuance, and so resolute in its support. He assented willingly and cordially to the new decision which was now taken to change the gradual tentative limited-liability advance into a hard and necessarily hazardous attack. He approved the momentous admiral telegram which was sent off after full discussion in our war room, of course, with continuous reference to the prime minister. He even offered to go and hold his flag and take command at the Dardanelles himself, informed the Dardanelles commissioners of this fact in a very frank and chivalrous manner.

Wire Vice-Admiral Carden

So far as the most responsible authorities cited in these pages were concerned, no sign of decision was manifested: Sir Arthur Wilson, Sir Henry Jackson, Admiral Oliver, Commodore de Bartolome all were united and agreed to press on to press hard. The ministers seemed equally decided. War office and foreign office were eager and hopeful. The prime minister did not even think it necessary to summon a council and put the point to them. I have never concealed my opinion: I rejoiced to find so much agreement and force gathering behind the enterprise. My own complaint has been that this high resolve was not carried through by all parties to a definite conclusion.

The explanation of this unity and resolution is simple. The vision of victory had lit up the mental scene. The immense significance of the Dardanelles and of the city which lay beyond had possessed all minds.

The whole combination which had been dispersed by Russia on March 6 was still latent. The attitude of Italy, of Bulgaria, of Rumania, of Greece, absorbed attention. Every one was wide awake. There was a virile readiness to take and dare. All the will power and ardor necessary to mount and launch a great operation by sea and land were now forthcoming. But alas a month too late!

We do not wish to hurry you or urge you beyond your judgment, but we recognize clearly that at a certain period in your operations you will have to push hard for a decision, and we desire to know whether you consider that point has now been reached. We shall support you in well-conceived action for forcing a decision, even if regrettable losses are entailed.

We wish to hear your views before you take any decisive departure from the present policy.

MINNEAPOLIS GREETS MR. LLOYD GEORGE

British Statesman Given Rousing Welcome When He Reached the Twin Cities on His Tour

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—The American Northwest opened its arms to David Lloyd George, the former British Premier, on his arrival here today for his first stop after completing his tour of Canada. He was met upon his arrival at the Milwaukee station by Governor Frank Preus, of Minnesota, and the chief officials of Minneapolis and St. Paul. He was also greeted by Governor Huston, of North Dakota. Even the American aborigine joined in the reception, a delegation of Sioux Indians from South Dakota, headed by two chiefs, formally inducted him into their tribe as a chief with high ceremony.

Met at the station by a crowd, he responded briefly to an address of welcome, delivered in the Welsh tongue by the Rev. Phythron, of the Presbyterian Church, thanking the thousands for the warmth of their greeting, and expressing pleasure at the welcome extended by them as citizens of the United States.

Shortly before noon Mr. Lloyd George went for an auto drive with Governor Preus, and then returned to speak at a luncheon, given by the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association.

Remaining quietly at his hotel this afternoon, the distinguished visitor plans to attend a private dinner this evening before departing from St. Paul shortly after 8 o'clock for Mooseheart, Ill., and Chicago, where he will be the guest tomorrow.

Incongruous at Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Right Hon. David Lloyd George, former British Premier, will visit Chicago incongruously.

—If he can.

Chicago's Willard's plan was revealed yesterday when Sir Alfred Cole, his personal representative, was asked to explain the program for next Wednesday, which is blank until 6 p.m.

"It is his own idea," said Sir Alfred. "He cannot enjoy the people and the streets, the buildings and the parks, which are all the same, and the food is the same for all of us practically nothing—but it uses me off altogether or turn to our advantage."

Later on in April, when we were far more deeply committed, had suffered palpable loss and rebuff, and could not withdraw without great injury to our war prestige, suggestions of this kind were indeed made. FOREIGN POLICY

Plainly enough one object upon which there is a certain unanimity of opinion at the Imperial Conference now in session is that "the whole weight of the Empire should be concentrated behind a united understanding and common action in foreign affairs." Nothing has been done so far in translating this belief into a policy of action, save the reaffirmation of what was outlined at the Imperial Conference of 1921. This was to recognize the right of the Dominions to a share in moulding foreign policy. It was, moreover, agreed that there should be discussions of foreign policy at Imperial cabinets and conferences, and that frequent information should be sent direct to the Prime Ministers of the Dominions on questions arising dealing with international relationships. The Government, in considering reductions in taxation, might invoke the aid of a financial expert to go into the whole aspect of Provincial finances. Such a financial expert is now engaged in Ontario, and one is needed every whit as much here as in a Province where a Farmers' Government became enmeshed in the net of extravagance. Upon no count is the Oliver Government so susceptible to attack as that of extravagance. The consensus of opinion throughout the Province is that there must be retrenchment, and that it should take place in every department of government, and that this retrenchment in the aggregate should reach some millions of dollars. Some time ago an inspired outline of the programme of legislation at the coming session of the Legislature was given publicity, and it contained hardly one subject which does not involve new, or increased expenditures. There is time for the Government to revise its programme between now and the opening of the session, and in any revision proposed it will be the hope of the people that taxation reductions, involving the abolition of the personal property tax, will be decided upon. Utterances of Cabinet Ministers are constantly concentrated on the need of inducing capital to come to British Columbia. Nothing that could be done is more likely to attract new capital than a decision not to mulct that capital so heavily as it is now mulcted once it embarks in the development of the Province. Apart from this, there should be specific alleviation for the individual taxpayer, whose state of mind would as well as a wise one. It must give one a feeling of great satisfaction to be in a position to defy the newspaper men and the world by saying, "I have nothing to say." The Federal Minister was not always in a position to say he had nothing to say. In the days before he became an old Parliamentary hand he was a common newspaper hand, and in the course of the daily grind he had to say something although his mind may have been, as barren of anything worth saying as Sahara is of verdure. Surely the individual who is chained to a task like that must be admitted to be the most miserable of all slaves. The task of the people who were compelled to make bricks without straw was as the simple job of blowing bubbles compared with it.

All the old Parliamentary hands who also have been successful Parliamentarians are just like the Minister of Finance. Sir John Macdonald did not jump up from his seat in Parliament to take part in all debates upon petty subjects. He spoke rarely, and when he did speak it was a special occasion. The House recognized that there was a treat in store for it, and all the members flocked into their places. In that matter Sir Wilfrid Laurier walked in the footsteps of Sir John Macdonald. He did not "make himself common" by being continually "on his feet." Nearly all the old political masters were just like that, with the one exception of Mr. Gladstone. It is possible, of course, but hardly likely, that we have in British Columbia one or two public men endowed with the towering oratorical and intellectual powers of a Gladstone.

Mr. Fielding is a fortunate man as well as a wise one. It must give one a feeling of great satisfaction to be in a position to defy the newspaper men and the world by saying, "I have nothing to say." The Federal Minister was not always in a position to say he had nothing to say. In the days before he became an old Parliamentary hand he was a common newspaper hand, and in the course of the daily grind he had to say something although his mind may have been, as barren of anything worth saying as Sahara is of verdure. Surely the individual who is chained to a task like that must be admitted to be the most miserable of all slaves. The task of the people who were compelled to make bricks without straw was as the simple job of blowing bubbles compared with it.

It cannot be said at present that the Dominions, under the consultative arrangement, have an effective voice in directing the foreign policy of the Empire. In pointing this out, it does not necessarily follow that developments in foreign policy would be any more beneficial with their aid in the matter of advice and votes, but it is the principle that is at stake. Here is how the present situation is summed up by Mr. W. M. Hughes, a former Premier of Australia. He says that in practice the Dominions, except when their representatives are in London, are told when things are done, that they have been done. It is true that these Dominions have a voice in deciding the broad general principles upon which foreign policy is to be based, but these broad principles are seldom discussed very fully except during the progress of such Imperial Conferences as the one now in session. The difficulty of discussing each separate issue as it arises is ably summed up by Mr. Hughes, and in this respect we quote him:

The busy world outside our doors does not stand still. Who can peer into the future and foresee what a day may bring forth? The state of foreign affairs in an Empire like ours is so vast, so crowded with events great and small—the great of today, dwindling into the trifles of tomorrow, the negligible waxing garrulous as the days pass—that unless the Dominions are kept fully informed on every question affecting or likely to affect the Empire before the policy in regard to it is shaped, the share of the Dominions in foreign policy is a thing which one can hardly conceive. It is a thing to say and quite another thing to do. I am not criticizing, but showing what is done and who does it. As I have shown, the Dominions too frequently hear of things after they have been done. They may have a voice in deciding general principles; they have a voice in applying them to concrete cases.

It is not a question of changing, but it is one of broadening the control of foreign policy, and it is exceedingly doubtful if that can be done unless the various Dominions establish Cabinet representatives in London. The objection to this is that their power would not be very great. Before registering decisions they would have to consult their Governments, and if the matters were vital ones these Governments, in turn, would have to consult their Parliaments. It is the great distances between the component parts of the Empire that make the task of broadening the control of foreign policy one of considerable difficulty. The probability is that the present Imperial Conference will do little more than reaffirm the policy endorsed by the Conference of 1921, with the recommendation, however, that there should be efforts made to keep the Dominions informed more in detail on questions of foreign policy and that there should be more concerted attempts made to secure an action about and sanction to any course of action before it is adopted, even in the case where emergencies arise. The oft-mooted question of an Imperial Parliament remains an impracticable one, or in any case it is, not one that is either widely favored, or one that appears essential to the purposes of Imperial unity. In such matters as immigration, trade, finance and constitutional law, amicable arrangements can always be reached between the matings of the British realm. It is merely on the question of a united foreign policy, which implies the problem of defence, that some unity of action is required. Nothing that has emanated so far from the present Imperial Conference seems to have shed much new light on a solution of this problem.

TAX REDUCTIONS

The main interest in the coming session of the Legislature of this Province will lie in what proposals are made, if any, for a reduction in taxation. We are fully persuaded that a point has been reached in the career of the present Government when its members realize that if they

Note and Comment
By R. B. D.

Right Hon. W. S. Fielding is a wise old Parliamentary hand. He is different from a great many politicians in the fact that he hardly ever opens his mouth and puts his foot in it. We know politicians who hardly ever open their mouths without putting their feet in them. Local cases might be cited in support of this "proposition." It is possible that the position of the Oliver Government would be much stronger if some of the Ministers were to follow the example of Mr. Fielding, and when tempted to talk simply say, "I have nothing to say."

But Mr. Fielding is an old newspaper hand as well as an old Parliamentary hand. He understands the ways and the purposes of the astute gentlemen of the Fourth Estate. He knows that there is always a purpose behind any question put to him by a reporter. He furthermore knows that there are times when "silence is golden," that anything he may be tempted to say on the spur of the moment may be put into print and at an inconvenient season may be quoted in judgment against him and against his political party.

The Government, in considering reductions in taxation, might invoke the aid of a financial expert to go into the whole aspect of Provincial finances. Such a financial expert is now engaged in Ontario, and one is needed every whit as much here as in a Province where a Farmers' Government became enmeshed in the net of extravagance. Mr. Fielding is a fortunate man as well as a wise one. It must give one a feeling of great satisfaction to be in a position to defy the newspaper men and the world by saying, "I have nothing to say." The Federal Minister was not always in a position to say he had nothing to say. Surely the individual who is chained to a task like that must be admitted to be the most miserable of all slaves. The task of the people who were compelled to make bricks without straw was as the simple job of blowing bubbles compared with it.

Some of us have often thought that our job would be nothing but "one glad, sweet song" if we could but think and write as fluently as some people talk; but then there is consolation in the thought that persons who talk very fluently are usually barren of thought and as a rule make public nuisances of themselves.

A reverend gentleman is our authority for a statement to the effect that the world is not a comfortable place to live in now—that well, Sheol, has been abolished. He says nobody believes in such a place nowadays, and that almost everybody is now engaged in raising—well, again, Sheol. It is not considered good form or usage to employ the old English word descriptive of this place or region, because it is commonly used in a damnable sense.

We are told that belief in Sheol practically kept a naturally unruly world in order for about two centuries. Now that the world has lost its faith, now that the ministers of grace and religion refrain from mentioning a place of eternal torment for rebellious and unrepentant souls, the reign of the devil has begun and social chaos is pending.

This is no place for the discussion of such facts or theories; but we are sure the subject must be an interesting one, and we are going to pass it on to the proper authorities.

There can be no reasonable doubt whatever as to the state of the world. It is savage in temper and contentious in disposition. It has no respect whatever for goods or territories that have been regarded hitherto as private properties; but in that respect is it in any material way different from the conditions that were prevalent when the comparatively cultured successors of the original tribes of Europe fought and robbed each other or when Napoleon and Bismarck battled and intrigued for possession of spoils and territories? The people in those days are said to have been firm in the faith, and the church still possessed the formidable weapon which is said to be necessary to keep them in order. However, as we have said, the subject is not one that can properly be discussed in this place, and we pass it on.

An authority in Vancouver has publicly declared that feeble-mindedness is the national menace of today. That is a somewhat striking declaration. We hope, however, that it is not intended to be general in its application.

That, again, is a delicate subject to discuss in this place.

SLEEPLESSNESS

A flock of sheep that leisurely pass by One after one, the sound of rain, and bees Smooth fields, white sheets of water, and pure sky; Sleepless; and soon the small birds' melodies Sing here, first uttered from my orchard trees; And the first cuckoo's melancholy cry. Vignettes From O. HENRY Little Stories by a Great Story Teller

KEEPING IN THE PUBLIC EYE

A merchant from a country town was in Houston yesterday and hunted up a Post reporter.

"I want you to state in your paper that I was once on the chain gang for burning an orphan asylum, and murdering my mother for trying to keep me from cutting up the baby when the jail was now being built. What do you mean?"

"Well, that other fellow that opened a store in our town is getting all my trade. Five women from Kansas fought two hours in front of his store day before yesterday. Each of them said she was his wife. He acknowledged having smothered three and said he had a couple more."

"Ohio. Everybody's in it, tradin' with him now, and I've got to get even. Just say, too, will you, that I'm a pikefisher, and inheritor, and trembles from an aunt. Don't forget it, now; something's got to be done to restore confidence."

Inconistency

Call a pretty girl a witch And she'll do her best to charm you; Tell an old maid she's a witch And who certainly will harm you— Thus you see how hard it is to please them all.

Call a pretty maiden "puiss"

And she'll archly smile upon you;

Call an ancient one a "cat."

She will grab an axe and run you—

The same name will not fit them all,

at all.

If you call your girl a "mouse"

She will think it cute and pretty;

Unto an aged spinster

You say "rats" you have our pity—

Thus you see you need not try to please them all.

By the Way

(Copyright, 1923, North American Newspaper Alliance.)

IN the southernmost part of Italy is the Province of Calabria. One of the most charming of the customs here in Italy's toe is that relating to a girl's dowry. For, as Girl's Desir in most European countries is a Row of trees, a Calabrian girl Poplar Trees has a slim chance of marriage unless she is the proud possessor of a "dowry."

The Calabrians avoid such a tragedy as that of bringing up a daughter and not being able to dowry her with a sufficient dowry to attract an eligible husband, make provision in her bathtubs against such a misfortune. In some parts of Calabria, when a little girl is born, the father plants a row of poplars which are here. By the time she is seventeen years old the poplars are fine, large trees and ready to be harvested. Then their wood is sold and the money is set aside for the daughter's dowry.

Calabria is also rich in historic interest. Scilla is one of the seaports. Across the Straits of Messina is Sicily. The monsters Scilla and Charybdis, supposed to menace mariners. Even the brave Ulysses was in never-ending fear of Scilla. It has always been filled with romance, and from this mountainous country come thrilling tales of highwaymen and brigands. For it was a favorite haunt for outlaws.

Mr. Lloyd George does, that a dictatorship is the only thing standing between the German people and revolution. If he had specified that a military dictatorship was what he meant, then we agree with him. The situation in Germany is not improving but it is evolving, and the movement, if it could be analyzed, would probably be found to be directed away from the republican form of government which succeeded the abdication of power of the Hohenzollern dynasty.

The frequent references made by Mr. Lloyd George to Germany are invariably designed to show that the French reparations policy is wrong. He is prejudiced and emphatic in his viewpoint. No one can deny that he knows a great deal about conditions in Europe, but as a prophet of developments his prescience has not always been justified. He heralded the Genoa Conference, which was of his own creation, as the solution of Europe's difficulties. Its results were nugatory; in fact, if anything, it only served to intensify complications. After all, Mr. Lloyd George's present series of speeches on this continent are largely academic. It is more his personality which people are thronging to study than to hear what he has got to say. For himself he should seize upon the occasion to use his platform power to induce the United States to become a factor in the settlement of the European situation. For some reason he does not dwell on the subject of the League of Nations. Germany remains his theme, and there is a great gulf fixed between his present attitude towards that country and that which he outlined in stumping England during the election campaign of December, 1918. Then it was that reparations should be fixed to the ultimate capacity of Germany's ability to pay, and that they should be collected at all costs. Now his stand-point is that France is in error in her Ruhr policy, and that a wider measure of consideration should be extended by the Powers to the German viewpoint. What that consideration should be he does not say, and, therefore, his speeches are largely either historical or academic.

Tax Penalties

Sir.—My attention has just been drawn to a ridiculous wrong statement in your issue of the 11th instant under the heading of "Tax Penalties—Crush Farmers." The quote is as follows:

"Farmers who have been forced, owing to successive years of drought and low financial returns, to leave their taxes unpaid for a year or more, are now being charged as high as 16 to 20 per cent per month as a penalty for failure to meet their obligations to the Provincial Government earlier."

Why such an outrageously wrong statement should be made I do not know, but I expect you will correct it upon receipt of this letter.

COMMITTEE STILL PONDERS PROBLEM

City's Finance Body Not Ready to Report on Comptrollership—Preliminary Culling Done

The master of the appointment of a city comptroller did not arise at last night's meeting of the City Council, as the finance committee, to whom the thirty-three applications were referred, did not make a report on the subject.

The committee, at its meeting yesterday, after hearing the applications, a preliminary scanning and marked off quite a number as unsuitable, thus narrowing the field. It is understood that a special meeting will be held this week to consider the matter further.

"It is probable that all names will be given to the Council, with the committee's comment upon each," explained Mayor Hayward yesterday.

CENTENNIAL CHURCH AIDS SISTER BODY

Congregation at Anniversary Banquet Last Evening Subscribed $250 in Cash to James Bay Church

Subscription raising went forward with wonderful alacrity at Centennial Methodist Church last evening. A lot of the members of the congregation pledge themselves generously toward the additional $200 a month, which is required for their own church, but they subscribed in cash, in response to an impassioned appeal from their pastor, Dr. Clem Davies, amounting to $220 toward the lifting of James Bay Methodist Church indebtedness.

Fully 400 people sat down to the generous supper served by the ladies of the church under the direction of their president, Mrs. J. L. Letch.

Floral decorations by Mrs. George Deaville preceded the meal, however, lacked nothing either in animation or enthusiasm. Mr. Clarence B. Deaville presided as chairman and toastmaster.

Speechmaking began about eight o'clock, and throughout indicated that Centennial Church is a really progressive, religious organization of the city, with Dr. Clem Davies as the chief driving force. He had, in the popular phrase of the evening, "put Centennial Church on the map," and whereas less than two years ago few people could even say where the building was now located, it is now known that it has been there.

One speaker quite openly admitted that Centennial Church, through the instrumentation of Dr. Clem Davies, had given him a spiritual "home," after he had floundered about in the black valley of atheism and despair.

Glowing Phrases

"The young man's man," "The Crusader who, while many of the city's young men were going about the world and set an example which it was to be hoped would be followed," "A magnetic personality," "A wonderful dynamo force—how otherwise could he get 4,000 people to the top of Mount Tolmie for a sunrise service?" "a man of exceptional caliber, who at a time of pessimism and discouragement made a remarkable effort to throw light into the darkness," and other glowing phrases mirrored the appreciation of speakers who preceded or followed the pastor, who coupled his wife's name with his own.

Some pastors are men of vision, some are men of hollow, showy astuteness; some stand out as men of leadership; but never in the history of the church have all these qualities been embodied in one man as they are in our pastor, Rev. Clem Davies," said Mr. C. B. Deaville, who proposed the toast. Personality, progressive, and persuasive, his speech was among his remarkable possessions. The congregation's endorsement of the toast which coupled his wife's name with his own was a whole-hearted ringing of "They Are Jolly Good Fellows," followed by three ringing cheers and a long round of applause.

HIGH SCHOOL GETS ANOTHER TEACHER

School Board Decides to Appoint Only One New Instructor—Mr. H. Cumberbirch Gets Post

On recommendation of Municipal Inspector George H. Dean, the City School Board decided yesterday afternoon to appoint only one additional teacher to the High School staff instead of two, as originally proposed. The position was given to Mr. H. Cumberbirch, vice-principal of the Victoria West School. The vacancy that had not been filled at present, the number of two, not warranting this,

Mr. W. C. Christie was appointed assistant demonstrator in connection with the laboratory work at the Victoria College. He is taking the second year arts course there, and has won recognition for work done in connection with the Astrophysical Observatory, Saanich. Mr. Christie carried on some work in connection with his studies. This came to the notice of the Hartland authorities, who were so impressed that they have loaned him a reflecting telescope to assist him in his research.

COURT HEARS TALE OF CHILD'S DEATH

EDWARD SMITH FACES TRIAL ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Father and Mother Break Down as They Tell How Little Peter Johnson Was Killed

How little Peter Johnson, four years old, was killed on the Malahat Drive last Tuesday evening, when he was returning to his home in Chemainus with his mother and father turned over on the Malahat Highway near Mill Bay, was told in the Provincial Police Court yesterday, when Edward Alex Smith, driver of the car, and a fellow employee of Peter Johnson, sr., appeared before Magistrate Jay in the preliminary proceedings on a charge of manslaughter.

The case for the Crown, which was completed before adjournment, was marked by the admission of the child's father that there had been a certain amount of beer drinking preliminary to the trip from this city. The witness, who broke down as he was given evidence, as did his wife, when she was asked to stand to corroborate him, insisted that Smith was not drunk, and that he himself was perfectly sober.

Smith was himself visibly affected as he listened to the story of the little boy's death, and sat by the side of his counsel, the tears running down his cheeks. Magistrate Jay held that the Crown had made a prima facie case, and refused to dismiss the charge. An adjournment was ordered until next Thursday, when Mr. R. C. Lowe, acting for the defence, will adduce evidence in behalf of his client. Provincial Constable Otway Wilkie conducted the case for the prosecution.

WEIR—The death occurred last Sunday morning on the Princess Avenue of Mrs. Jane Weir, widow of Pte. Andrew Weir. The deceased was 29 years of age and was born at Fraserburgh, Scotland, having resided in Victoria for the past eleven years. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Farquhar, in this city; two sisters, Miss V. Farquhar and Miss L. Farquhar; also four brothers, John and George, in Victoria; Charles, Louis, Bert, and Alexander, at San Francisco. The remains are repose at the chapel of the B. C. Funeral Co., where service will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Campbell on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Ross Bay Cemetery.

STEVENS—Service over the remains of Mr. Francis Thomas Stevens was held yesterday afternoon at 3:30 in the B. C. Funeral Chapel by the Rev. A. de B. Owen. Many friends attended and the casket and hearse were covered with floral tributes. The hymns sung were, "Ne'erer My God to Thee" and "Abide With Me." The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. F. W. Jenkins, A. Murray, W. Murray, A. Murray, C. V. Jenkins and W. Stevens. The remains were laid to rest at Ross Bay Cemetery.

The accident occurred at the place where the road runs down to sea level. Mr. Dixie, driving the car, running at ten miles an hour, lost control, the piece of road turned over, and fell down for a distance of six feet, pinning all the members of the party beneath it with the exception of Smith. Peter Johnson managed to force his way out from the overturned car, was upside down; and he and Smith were able to drag out Mrs. Johnson. The child and Chris Johnson could not be removed until help was obtained from the driver and passenger of a passing car. The little boy, who was found to be pinned under the steering wheel of the car, was dead when he was released.

Like "Drunken Accident?"

Charles Edward Dixon and Fred W. Barker, driving a Buick past the scene of the accident, told how they had stopped and given aid. It looked to Mr. Dixon as if it were a "drunken accident." The witness thought that Smith had liquor in him. Smith told the witness that he had taken no drink that day. The witness said that he had seen him at Vogel's camp, where they had spent the night. Smith had soon dropped off to sleep, and next morning his manner in respect of the accident had been "causal."

Dr. Primrose Wells, of Duncan, who conducted a post-mortem examination on the body of the little boy, testified that death resulted by fracture of the skull. It was obvious, said the doctor, that the weight which had crushed the child's head had pressed upon it for some little time.

Provincial Constable Kier, who arrested Smith, testified that he had found no liquor in or near the wrecks of cars.

Magistrate Jay was unable to grant Mr. Lowe's motion for dismissal of the charge. There had been evidence of drinking said the court, and there was certainly a prima facie case which called for full investigation. An adjournment until next Thursday was ordered to enable Mr. Lowe to call witnesses for the defence.

CHINAMEN WILL APPEAL

Counsel for Convicted Gamblers Present That Their Clients Merely Bonde Club Members

As a result of convictions in the police court yesterday, when 33 Chinamen were tried as frequenters of two common gaming houses in Chinatown, the sum of $300 was added to the municipal treasury.

Appearing for Tin Fook, Lay Hoy and Cat Cho, each of whom was mulcted in the sum of $100 as keeper of the Chinese houses in the premises of the Chinese Commercial Club, Mr. B. Jackson, K.C., presented that the evidence disclosed only that the place was a properly constituted club and should not be discriminated against because its members were Chinese. Magistrate Jay was unable to agree, and could not hold that the club was bona fide. In the cases of 17 other Chinamen, fined $20 each as inmates of the same club, Mr. Jackson maintained that he intended to appeal from the convictions. Police evidence was to the effect that a game of fan tan was in progress when the place was raided.

Fong and twelve other Chinamen pleaded guilty to a similar charge in respect of premises at 537 Cormorant Street, and were each fined $20. Mr. R. C. Lowe appeared for the defence. The place was raided by Chief of Police John Fry and squad last Saturday night, lottery paraphernalia was seized and the accused placed under arrest.

Princess Maquinna Late-Mail Boat Schedule Changes—New Connections With Trains

PORT ALBERNI, Oct. 15.—The steamship Princess Maquinna arrived in port a day behind schedule on her way north yesterday. The delay was caused by the Maquinna having to go to Vancouver to unload a shipment of pulp from the Weyerhaeuser mill at Port Alberni, and also having to take 100 tons of concentrates from the Tidewater Copper Company plant at Sidney Inlet to the Tacoma smelter, both of which shipments were loaded when the Maquinna was on her last trip up the coast. The Tidewater Company is now shipping steadily, the ore in each case being sent to the smelter at Tacoma by the Maquinna.

The mail boat service between Port Alberni, Bamfield and Ucluelet, and way points, will have a change of schedule to conform with the winter sailing service, commencing on October 1.

The boat will leave here on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings, instead of Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons, as at present.

Stone Brothers have chartered the Victory III to the Tabata Company for the herring fishing season, and E. D. Stone will take the boat to Nanaimo via Victoria, this week.

World War School—The Ladies' Aid of Knox Church applied to the City School Board yesterday afternoon for the use of the George Jay School auditorium for a meeting. Trustee Silvert objected to setting any precedent, but the other trustees decided to accede to the request.

To Purchase Debentures—The City Council last night authorized the purchase of $20,000, Alberta Great Waterways Railway Company 5 per cent bonds, maturing January 1, 1959, at the price of $91.50 and accrued interests, the yield to be 5.5%.

Passes Problem On—On recommendation of the Finance Committee, the City Council last night passed on the question of the James Bay Methodist Church taxes to the Legislature Committee for report. The church claims the taxes have been illegally levied.

Opened Up Business—Mr. Ralph E. French and family, who left here last March, have settled in Ventura, California, where Mr. Frost has purchased the drug business of John Flanagan, one of the finest equipped drug stores of Southern California. Mr. Frost was formerly in business in Cumberland, while Master Leslie was a popular student at the Collegiate School here.

Old China and New—Tomorrow evening at St. Andrew's Church schoolroom, the Rev. John H. The lecture will be under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of the church.

L'Alliance Francaise—L'Alliance Francaise is to begin its Winter series of lectures on Friday, November 9, under very favorable auspices, when M. Moret, an eminent French Egyptologist, will give a lantern-talk on "The Pyramids of Giza." All wishing to join the meetings of the Alliance, which will begin shortly, or to attend the course of lectures, are asked to kindly communicate with the secretary, telephone 28402.

St. John's Social Event—When the Men's Society of St. John's Church meet tomorrow evening, its first social function of the season will take place. The wives of the members, as well as prospective members and their wives, will be invited to be present, and an enjoyable evening is anticipated. The programme for the Winter season is in the hands of the printers, and the president of the society, Mr. Hallam, expects that a number of copies will be ready for distribution at this meeting.

Want New Arrangements—Objection to the present practice of keeping delinquent children at the Children's Aid Home was registered by the City Council, which asked the Council to consider the making of other arrangements. After much discussion it was agreed that only six or seven delinquent cases were kept at the Home in a year and then only for a brief period until other arrangements were made. They were not allowed to mix with the other children. The letter was received and filed.

Theft Charge Remanded—Information that the trouble was a partnership dispute and might be settled outside the jurisdiction of a criminal court were conveyed to Judge Lampert from the Oak Bay police court on a charge of speeding trial. Mr. Alex Martin, appearing for the Crown, asked for an adjournment in order to report to the Attorney General the fact that the complainant wished to withdraw the information. The case was adjourned until tomorrow. Mr. W. H. Bullock-Webster appeared for the defence.

Haydn's "Creation"—The rehearsals for the famous oratorio "The Creation" are very well attended, and are held every Tuesday in the schoolroom of the First Presbyterian Church. There are still a few vacancies for tenors and basses as the present meeting joining must register by next Tuesday. After which the rolls must be closed. It is the intention to render this oratorio some time before Christmas, and, judging by the interest shown at rehearsals, the performance promises to be exceptionally fine. These oratorio performances given from time to time in the First Presbyterian Church are looked forward to with keen interest by the music lovers of the city and elsewhere.

Hix vs. Chow Lee—Orders nisi, returned in two weeks, were made in Supreme Court Chambers yesterday by Mr. Justice Murphy on the habeas corpus applications of Mr. Stuart Henderson, appearing for the defendant in the case of Hix vs. Chow Lee and Wong Jong. Those accused were convicted in Prince George of charges of having opium, and were sentenced to terms of imprisonment.

In the case of Chow Lee a further penalty was imposed, in the shape of a fine of $750. Mr. Henderson said that his client had served his specific term of imprisonment, and was now in prison because he would not pay the fine. Counsel estimated that he would not argue that the fine, inasmuch as it had been payable to the municipality, was an illegal imposition.

The real reason for the fight in the courts was the deportation order accompanying the sentence. Mr. Henderson, Mr. W. D. Carter, K.C., Deputy Attorney General, appeared for the Crown.

DEPARTMENT HEADS TO SEEK ECONOMIES

Mayor Asks Finance Committee to Confer With Officials With View Keeping Down Expenditures

Mayor Hayward requested the Finance Committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon to confer with the heads of departments with a view to reducing town expenditures for the remainder of the year for the purpose.

"We officials have been doing very well in the matter of economy this year," said His Worship yesterday, "but with the end of the year not far off, I think it wise for a fresh scrutiny to be made in search of fresh avenues for saving. All heads will be asked to submit their over-spends, but to come below the estimated figures if at all possible, I want the city to pay its way this year."

The City Purchasing Agent reported to the Finance Committee yesterday that none of the city plant used in constructing the Johnson Street Bridge had yet been sold. If the equipment is not sold by the end of this year it will have to be found elsewhere in order that the bridge may be finished, and one reason why the Mayor is so anxious to see further economies effected is that he wishes to prepare for this eventuality.

WIND AND RAIN INTRODUCE WINTER

At 9:30 p.m. the centre of the storm was in the vicinity of Victoria, the barometer reading 29.10. This, one of the lowest records ever made here, was an indication of the proximity of the core of the gale.

Colder Weather Probable

Colder weather may be expected following this storm, Mr. Denison said. Heretofore this season gales have been followed by a period of calm and swinging northward, in conformity with past custom, to the Yukon and the Arctic. Consequently, not only has Victoria been experiencing a fine Fall, but the Prairies have been basking under mild skies and the Yukon has been shaking its head over the phenomenon of ice-free rivers and warm temperatures. In Calgary on Sunday the thermometer read 50 degrees. Yesterday at Medicine Hat it was 68, and at Winnipeg 72. Further north it was just as warm, for Le Pas reported 74 last night. These are very unusual temperatures for this time of year on the Prairies.

Last night's visitor showed, however, that Nature is fighting herself, according to Mr. Denison. The gales are taking their customary path along more southern latitudes now, and will bring a touch of the Arctic with them. The Yukon's fine days have already vanished. Yesterday morning it was 28 in the Yukon.

Little damage was done in the city by the high winds. The telephone company had a couple of dozen lines part under the strain in Esquimalt, Cadboro Bay and other outlying districts, but the wires in general held up very well, considering the strength of the gale. No connections were broken between Victoria and outside points. In some sections of the city the anticipated east wind again made its appearance owing to "trouble" on the electric light lines.

The barometric reading here of 29.10, although low for Victoria, was high in comparison with the pressure elsewhere along the Coast. Ocean Mills recorded 29.03. Bull Harbor 28.98. Estevan Point the same as Bull Harbor. The latter was the lowest of all, 28.88. At Estevan the gale was accompanied by a thunderstorm and exceptionally heavy rain.

One way traffic streets have resulted in cutting down auto accidents considerably in many cities.

KIWANIANS CELEBRATE FIRST BIG RAINSTORM

Club Smoker at Westholme Inn Last Night Provided Lots and Varied Programme

Kiwanians of Victoria proved beyond question last night that water has no effect when it comes to their turning out for a celebration. Last night's rainstorm was the rainiest that has rained for some few months but the Kiwanians turned out at the club smoker held in the Westholme Inn, Government Street, nearly one hundred per cent.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the entertainment programme—a dark secret until the fun started, and with the aplause of their fellow-members, they added numerous fresh laurels to their fund of such things. Songs, dances, horse-racing, boxing, orchestra selections, instrumental solos, skits, sketches and turns, all were included and the special quarters of the Westholme Cabaret was kept going at top speed from eight o'clock until nearly midnight.

The programme, under the direction of Kiwanian G. Newton, was as follows:

Opening number by the orchestra; "O Canada," by the Club; song, "On the Road to Mandalay," by Mr. E. Butterworth and the Club; sketch, "Vaudeville in the Making" by Messrs. Carl Stocker and Jack Trace; Kiwanis Derby, starter Mr. F. Dilabbough (the old grey mare winning the race by the post on her nose); song, "Mellow Moon," by Mr. Tom McLean; duet, "Beef-Raisin Dust," by Messrs. E. Butterworth and Tom Keay; boxing, two three-round bouts between Roy Dick and Roy Barnes and Seaman Stubington and Seaman Freeman; dance, "Sailors' Hornpipe," by Boy Dick; refreshments were served at this stage, hot dogs, dill pickle with compomise, onions da la violet, ginger ale, etc.

Mr. E. Imhoff led off the second half of the programme with a comic song, "The Girl-Editor's Daughters"; Mr. Compton, of the Compton Comedy Club, followed with a comedy sketch entitled "Execution." He had everything but a bucket of blood. Harold Dixon led the club through "Abouette." "The Nut Handicap" came next. Five nags faced the starters but so many people crowded the finish line that the winner could not be determined. The final feature was the appearance of a number of actresses and actors from the Macy & Baird Stock Company of the Pantages Theatre, in solos, quartettes and dances. They were heartily encouraged. Mr. Tom Kelway rendered "A Gipsy Love Song," and the evening was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

TO GATHER DATA ON PULPWOOD RESOURCES

Chamber of Commerce Appoints Committee to Present to Commission—Ex-Isle Tax Lower

In order to secure accurate information respecting the pulpwood resources of Vancouver Island and the province as a whole, which will be placed before the Royal Commission, it is proposed to convene a meeting and report upon the Dominion resources of the commodity, it was decided yesterday by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce to appoint a special committee.

It is understood that the Royal Commission will hold public meetings in various centres in Canada on an early date.

The following are the members of the committee appointed to prepare data to lay before the Royal Commission: Messrs. A. Carmichael, E. Tomlin, J. O. Cameron, R. T. Elliott and Mr. Blair.

The Growers' Wine Company, the newly-organized local company which has been manufacturing wine from district logberries, will be called upon to pay seven and one-half cents per gallon excise tax instead of thirty cents, according to information received from the Victorian Chamber of Commerce from the Minister of Customs, Ottawa. The Chamber had been petitioned by the company to secure the application of the recent revision of the excise tax schedule on wines of Canadian manufacture, without which, it was explained, the company would find great difficulty in manufacturing supplies for the British Columbia Liquor Control Board.

CONSERVATIVES OF DEEP COVE ORGANIZE

Residents of District Meet, Form Association and Elect Officers—Col. Peck, V.C., Speaks

A general meeting of the residents of Deep Cove, and district was held on Wednesday evening last, in the Deep Cove Social Club Hall, for the purpose of forming a branch of the Liberal-Conservative Association, there being about fifty present. The chair was taken by Mr. C. E. White.

The chairman, in his opening remarks, said that he had been consulted with the organization of a local branch of the association, he would like to extend a very hearty welcome to those present, and especially to one who had lately taken up his residence amongst them, and whom they were fortunate in having with them, Colonel C. W. Peck, V.C. He would also like to remind those present that the ladies had an equal responsibility with the men, in choosing a representative in both the Federal and Provincial houses, and he would ask that this be considered when nominations to the various offices were made.

Judging by the large audience there certainly was a great revelation of feeling amongst the Government supporters, could leave no doubt in the mind of those present what the feeling of this part of the constituency was, and he hoped that an opportunity might be given them soon of casting their vote for the Conservative candidate.

The election of officers then took place, the following being the result: Hon. H. McPherson, the Right Hon. Arthur McPherson and the Hon. W. J. Bowser, K.C., honorary vice-president; Col. C. W. Peck, V.C., D.S.O.; president, Mr. C. E. White; vice-president, Mr. Campbell Layard; secretary treasurer, Mr. O. G. Clark.

At the request of the meeting the appointment of an executive committee was left over to a later date. The chairman then called on Col. Peck to address the meeting and stated that there were many in the hall who had served under Colonel Peck in France and they were glad to renew his acquaintance.

The colonel gave a very forcible address, drawing the attention of his audience to the enormous debt of the Province, and how the Oliver government took office, money being squandered recklessly and an enormous civil list being burdened on the country, through the appointment of party "healers" with the consequent result that the farmer was taxed out of existence.

Commissions had been appointed at random, the net result of which was that, instead of spending of the people's money, no adjustment of the grievance into which the commission had investigated, and a further tax on the farmer to pay the bill.

He closed his address with an appeal to the people to get behind their candidate at the next election whenever that happened to be, and see that the present Government was thrown out of office.

A hearty vote of thanks was given Col. Peck on behalf of the meeting by the chairman, after which the meeting then adjourned with the singing of the National Anthem.

NANAIMO WORKS FOR NEW HOSPITAL

Kiwiana Club Takes Up Question of Procuring Funds—Death of Ladymouth Citizen

NANAIMO, Oct. 15.—At a recent special meeting of the local Kiwanis Club, the question of the need for a new hospital in Nanaimo was thoroughly discussed. The general opinion was that a new institution was urgent, and that it was necessary for each person in the city and district to be in sympathy with the movement. With this end in view and with the intention of getting an expression of opinion from all other interested parties in the city, two resolutions were placed before the club and carried unanimously. The resolutions which were placed before the club and adopted are as follows: "That as an objective the Kiwanis Club of Nanaimo decides to assist in the finding of a suitable and appropriate scheme in the nature of a new hospital providing accommodation for seventy-five beds. That in the building of a new hospital the Kiwanis Club consider that the financing of the scheme they prefer supporting does not necessarily entail the issuing of a money by-law, but the club is in favor of a scheme to raise funds by a direct canvass of all individuals in the Nanaimo Hospital area."

The death occurred at Ladymouth on Saturday morning of Joseph Travers after a lengthy illness. The deceased was thirty years of age and was an native of England, coming to Ladymouth about a year and a half ago from Bideford, Devon, and joined himself a strong addition to the forward line of that team until illness forced him to retire from the game. He leaves to mourn his loss his widow, and four small children. The funeral, which is under the direction of Mr. D. J. Jenkins, of Nanaimo, will be held on Tuesday next.

The remains of little Edna Alma Jones, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Jones of Northfield, were laid at rest in the Nanaimo cemetery Saturday afternoon. Services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Welsh. The floral tributes were numerous.

Winnipeg Cheers
Mr. Lloyd George On His Way to States

WINNIPEG, Oct. 15.—Right Hon. David Lloyd George and his party left here yesterday afternoon in the midst of another such ovation as has marked his progress across Canada thus far. He was accompanied to the station by the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir James Alken, and Mayor.

The same steel train that had brought him unscathed except for the privations of the trip which had been placed at Mr. Lloyd George's service by the Welsh societies of the United States.

The Canadian Pacific station was surrounded by large crowds who cheered heartily as the wartime premie passed through. Mr. Lloyd George bid farewell to those on the platform, who included Col. G. C. Coleman, vice-president of Canadian Pacific Western Lines; Mrs. Coleman, C. E. Stockill and a number of Canadian newspapermen who accompanied him thus far, to these he expressed his gratitude for what he termed the many kindnesses he had received from the Canadian press and the railways of this country.

He again spoke in terms of admiration for his tour had been carried out and for the excellence of Canadian railway equipment in which he had traveled. The run to Emerson, Manitoba, was made in a little less than two hours, and here the train passed on to the Soo line for Minneapolis.

Mr. Lloyd George, accompanied by David Lloyd George and Miss Margaret, passed out of Canada standing on the back platform of their car, and, hat in hand, the little Welshman waved good-bye to Canada and the crowd that cheered him. At the stations along the line the inhabitants gathered to give a greeting as the train passed, just as they did the previous day through the woods of northern Ontario.

On leaving Canada the party of American and British newspapermen who accompanied the train were loud in their thanks to Canadian members of the craft for many courtesies extended.

DELIVERS ADDRESS ON ZEEBRUGGE RAID

Captain Thorpe-Douglas, R.N., Will Speak Under Auspices of British Campagniers' Association

During the many years which have elapsed since the formation of the British Campagniers' Association it has been the ambition of its members to have at their annual dinner soldiers, sailors or diplomats of distinction to present addresses on subjects dear to the hearts of those who have served the crown in its several frontiers.

This year's dinner, on November 1, promises to be one marked for especial consideration, and the British Campagniers' Association considers itself fortunate in having as the principal speaker of the evening one who has served in the North Sea and whose ability as a public speaker is above question.

Captain G. L. Thorpe-Douglas, R.N., is now serving in Victoria, and, in fact, may be remembered by many old-timers as second officer in command of H.M.R. Amphion when the Pacific Naval Squadron was stationed in Esquimalt twenty-three years ago.

After serving for a period as King's Captain of the River Number One, Capt. Thorpe-Douglas was an officer commanding the "Amphion" section of the navy, one of the "Frigates of the Fleet" immortalized by Kipling in his "Sea Warfare," and it is in this capacity that the stirring incidents in connection with the Nootka, such as Zeebrugge will be presented.

The president, Lt.-Col. Peck, V.C., D.B.O., wishes to announce that reservations may be arranged through any of the members of the executive or at the office of Mr. Beaumont Borges, Pemberton Building.

The Girl in the Corner Apartment

By MAY CHRISTIE
Author of "One Glorious Year," "The Daring Kim," Etc.

THE CHARACTERS

Cynthia Brent, country girl, living in a New York apartment she has inherited from an old lady she once befriended.

Ruby Allison, her gay and frivolous friend.

Alec Kerr, Ruby's fiancee.

Quentin Gray, an artist friend of Ruby's.

Aun Ellen, who keeps house for Cynthia.

Murray Stewart, for whom Cynthia works as a stenographer.

Wakeland, friend and rich client of Stewart, who takes a fancy to Cynthia.

Violet Jerrold, friend of Murray's.

III—An Exhibition

RETURNING to Mrs. Wakeland's drawing-room, there was a radiance on the face of Cynthia that had sympathetic beauty about it. She had come to see and understand "Illes the child." She fell in love; all right?

Then began the most fascinating dance exhibition that Cynthia had ever seen. In a few moments measure was a slow and easy one. Then the Russian girl cried out:

"Some one please put on the new record from the Corps de Ballet."

And a queer, very vivid baroness became an airy ball of thimbledom whose toes whirled on the polished parquet floor so quickly that time seemed too light andairy-like to be a mortal.

"Magnificent dancer, isn't she?"

Murray Stewart stood beside Cynthia's chair, close to the stool Count Veroni had vacated. "All Russian women of high family are trained to dance from the time they are babies. And this little count is very nimble."

Cynthia was completely fascinated.

"How can she remember all these intricate steps?" she whispered.

"She doesn't remember them. She's inventing them," laughed her companion.

The dance ended in a round of applause, and the baroness swept across the floor in a dainty pirouette.

"Where did you learn, my dear?"

"Ah! I have not learned much. I am too lazy!" laughed the pretty young baroness. "But my husband permitted me to study under Anna Kippling for six months in England; and when I was tiny, my father, who was a member of the Royal Ballet, sent me for four years every morning for two hours, to the School of the Imperial Ballet in Petrograd, so that now I have no bones in my body, only rubber bands, that's all."

Everybody laughed, and the gallant young man announced:

"Madame, and I will 'ox' now."

The Russian girl consented, and the pair swept off in the quickest, cleverest fox-trot anyone in the room had ever seen.

Cynthia in this new absorption leaped to his feet, and clapped his hands.

"It's the tango! I will—dance."

Like an answering flash, the slender Russian baroness appeared in her silk negligee, a foot that clung to her little young figure like the fish-scales to a mermaid.

"Baronne, may I have the pleasure?"

She gave a thrilling laugh, and—without further ado (for Russian and Italians lack the self-consciousness and awkwardness of the Anglo-Saxons) she pranced with extraordinary lightness on the very tip of her toes, and held her head out to the count, who took it as though it were the rarest jewel in the king's crown, and bowed very low before her.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Beaten, crushed after one of the most spectacular world's series fights in history, the New York Giants today surrendered to the Yanks, the world's series championship banner they have flown for the past two years. And tonight, with this record-shattering, million-dollar title battle at an end, the emblem of supremacy flutters atop the Yankee Stadium, greatest and costliest monument of the diamond.

The Yanks won the sixth and final game this afternoon, at the Polo Grounds, half of the Giants, by coming from behind and scoring five runs in a dramatic, pulse gripping eighth inning rally just when it seemed that the mighty men fighting desperately with their backs to the wall would see the series and force a seventh contest to decide the struggle. The final score was 6 to 4.

Thus the American League champions swept to their third successive triumph, cutting the once proud and mighty Giant machine and by the decisive margin of four games to two, gained their first world's title in more than two decades of embattled history.

$00,000 Pay $1,063,000

Thus, too, was written into the annals of the national game a struggle for the highest stakes it has ever known, a titanic struggle eclipsing all previous records that was witnessed by more than 300,000 fans who paid more than $1,063,000 in gate receipts.

The story of that eighth inning today, coming when it appeared that nothing could stop Arthur Groh and the incomparable play of Frank Frisch had checked the headlong rush of the Yankees, will go down as one of the most startling decisive championship tournaments of all time. That brief thrilling yet tragic scene, when the Yanks, in their blindness an ascendancy of the Yanks to the pinnacle of their career, and simultaneously the utter collapse of the Giants, the crushed hopes of John McGraw for three successive world's titles—debacle so stunning that tonight it seemed to have reached the height of all-time championship heights of the Giant machine as it emerged broken from the test.

Failure of Idol of Idols

It witnessed, too, the failure of the game's idol to answer a call to fame that would have raised him to heights greater than he ever touched. For Babe Ruth, star of the stars, the mightiest pitcher ever, who started the Yankees off in the first inning with his third home run of the series, fell down miserably in the eighth inning pinch striking out with the bases full and the Yankees yet one run behind.

In his place a new hero was lifted up. Gehrig, who also stepped into the breach that the Babe had left and delivered the blow that resulted in three runs and clinched the Yankee triumph.

In the final analysis it was the utter failure of the Giant pitchers that cost the world's champions their crown, thus plus the fact that the Yankees, on the other hand, supported steady and at times brilliant twirling with an indomitable, remorseless attack. Outside of Nehf, who alone of the Giant regulars was not in full gear, McGraw had no sharpshooter upon whom to call. And when Nehf went the way of the others at last it marked a swift and convincing end.

Speed, Punch, Pitching

The Yankees, over the stretch of six games, outplayed their rivals in every department of the game, save possibly defense, and here there was little to do with "Jumping Joe" DiMaggio, the champion, and the stalwart Milach, of the Giants, as the outstanding heroes. Speed, punch and pitching—the fundamentals—all were preponderantly on the side of the Yankees.

The Yankee's speed was not alone due to the fact that he beat, and therein Huggins brought about a discomfiture of his rival, McGraw, supposedly master tactician, the "wearer mind," whose battle with "brute force" seemed at the start to be the more dramatic feature of the action. "Brute force" typified the Yankees, who were triumphant, but because it applied with that quality other winning regulations.

Casey Stengel, whose spectacular home runs gave the Giants the winning margin in their only triumph, stands out as hero of the fallen World's champions.

"Yankees, four victories; Stengel, two."

BULLET JOE BUSH BAFFLES GIANTS

McGRAW USES FOUR TWIRLERS,
BUT WITHOUT AVAIL

Yankees Pound Out Fourteen Safes—
Joe Dugan and Bob Meuse Leading With Hickory

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Sweeping forward with irresistible power on the high tide of triumph, the New York Yankees battered John McGraw's Giants into submission yesterday for the second consecutive victory.

Batted at every turn by the marvelous, almost flawless work of "Bullet Joe" Bush, reeling under the terrific force of the Yankee bombardment, the Giants were submerged by a score of 8 to 1, put to a rout as complete as it was devastating.

One of the red flannel shirt and purple fork-bait bats was at bay with three hits, all of which were made by Irish Meuse, whose triple in the second inning led to his team's only score. Except for this brief flurry, Bush was invincible, dominating the game with his masterful hurling, while the Yankees, winging their high guns into action without delay, won the battle with a barrage of seven runs in the first two innings.

Closed to the Showers

Two of McGraw's aces, Jack Bentley and Jack Scott, were shelled into retirement in less than three innings and two others were called into the fray before the echo of the last fusillade in the air decided the game.

Bush's performance yesterday was a high relief against the ineffectiveness of McGraw's two twirlers who were beaten out by the Yankees in their first appearance in the last game.

Meuse and Stengel had everything, blinding speed, deceptive curves and marvelous control of his fork ball. Only thirty-two men faced him, and, except Meuse, none got the semblance of a hit. He walked two, struck out three and turned back his opposition in rapid fire order in six of the nine innings.

Meuse's triple and Casey Stengel's out combined to give the Giants their only run in the second inning. In the fourth Young walked and Meuse got a double with two out, but Stengel had a single. Bush and Pipp, Meuse's singed in the third straight safe blow, to second when Kelly walked, but Gowdy hit weakly to Ward and Kelly was forced at second for the third out. Those few sorties tell the story of the completeness with which the Giants were held in check.

Fans $75,000 Beauty

Bush seemed to grow stronger as the game progressed, or perhaps it was that the Giants lost heart, and in the eighth "Bullet Joe" received an ovation when he walked out Jimmy O'Connell, 175,000 beauty, and Dave Bancroft in succession. Led by "Jumping Joe" Dugan, who added batting glory to his already marvelous fielding record for the series, and "Bob" Meuse, the Yanks concentrated their attack in the first two games. Thereafter, with a formidable lead behind them, they let down their guard.

Dugan gathered four hits, including a home run inside the park in the second inning and scored three runs, while Meuse slugger out three safe blows, including a triple. Fourteen safe hits in all were collected off the Giants' moundmen, and every player except Pipp added to his batting error.

BIG ENGLISH COMEDY SHOWING AT ROYAL

"The Sporting Earl," Full of Thrills and Comedy, Includes Big Fire and Sensational Escapes

Again today at the Royal Theatre the public of Victoria will have a chance to see the big English production, "The Sporting Earl." This film opens in Canada after a run of tremendous success in England. It is a mélange of laughs, thrills, romance and melodrama, the like of which has not been seen since the famous picture "Mickey."

The story of "The Sporting Earl" concerns the will of Sir Horace Pilkington, baronet, by the terms of which one nephew becomes the heir to the baronet's fortune, and the other nephew becomes the possessor of his big racing stable, and the nephew is "The Sporting Earl."

Without a cent to his name, absolutely penniless, this irresponsible young "noblemen" is the owner of the stable which numbers on its roster the famous name of "Cheerio 'Arr a Mo," consisting of many in English sporting circles as the fastest colt from Ascot to Timbuctoo.

"The Sporting Earl," in an effort to retrieve his fortunes and land a girl, enters the stars of his stable, "Quick-silver" and "Cheerio 'Arr a Mo," in a double event at Ascot with the intention of emulating J. K. L. Rose so that the following day the newspaper will carry the sensational and startling news, "The Sporting Earl scores a double at Ascot."

The story is full of thrills and comedy, and includes a big fire in the stables, sensational fights, two steeplechases, and the affair of the will of Sir Horace Pilkington, baronet, which will keep spectators tied in knots.

"The Sporting Earl" has met with great success in England and is hailed as one of the big pictures of the year. The cast includes noted English actors, such as Victor Herbert, who plays "The Sporting Earl," and Lillian Hall-Davis, as the girl. The latter is well known from her performances in "A Royal Divorce" and "The Games of Life."

THE GREEN GODDESS HAS POWERFUL PLOT

Percy Marmont Scores Great Triumph as Mark Sabre in Big Picture Showing at Capitol This Week

When A. S. M. Hutchinson wrote "If Winter Comes" he created a work of literature that was destined to become a classic. Now the author of the William Fox has taken the famous novel and made a screen version that reaches heights in the field of graphic drama that, in the opinion of the writer, never has been attained before. The picture was given its first showing in this city at the Capitol Theatre last night.

The real story was without doubt a treat, but to see his story enacted in a setting of the splendor of old England—its quaint villages, its Norman castles and its rare atmospheres of richness and beauty—is a delight such as audiences have not experienced in many a moon.

Percy Marmont, as Mark Sabre, with his pleasant sense of humor, his dash, and his likeable way of life, and his absorbing love of all mankind, runs the gamut of emotions in a way that compels admiration and just a little wonder. His scene with Twynings, the hypocrite his enemy, when he learns that Twynings son was the father of the child of Effie Bright, for whom death the elder Twynings sought to have Mark convicted, is a masterpiece.

Marmont enters the office with murder in his heart. Twynings, who has just heard of the death of his son at the front, is sobbing on the desk. His selfish mind lets him believe that Sabre has come full of sympathy. Sabre advances, gun in hand, bent upon "ramming down his throat" the telltale letter. But Mark has no time for the violator of Effie's honor is dead.

He hesitates, then softens. The sympathetic heart in him begins to assert itself. He puts away his revolver and, though revolting at the thought, puts his arch enemy on the back with the consoling words:

"There, there, Twynings—bad luck—bad luck." Fine death—died for his sins?"—he says.

This is but one of the great moments in the picture. It is without doubt one of the best ever produced.

COLUMBIA Nearly two thousand extras were employed by the Warner Brothers during the filming of "The Little Church Around the Corner." Seven hundred men were employed in the big scenes of the picture. A real mine costing $25,000 was constructed for the strike scene. For this purpose steel cages from a Pennsylvania coal mine were purchased, thus giving the last touch of reality to the picture. "The Little Church Around the Corner" is a Warner Brothers production, and will be shown at the Columbia Theatre again today.

In WYOMING MAKES HIT WITH AUDIENCE

Macy and Baird Meet With Success in Last Night's Presentation of Melodrama at Pantages

Lovers of real stirring melodrama, with a despicable villain, a handsome hero, a girl of beauty and charm, and a plot that contains much action, including kidnapping, horse stealing, and a hot chase after a murderer, with just enough light comedy and love-making between whites to entertain all, thoroughly enjoyed the drama produced last night at Pantages Theatre by Macy and Baird.

The play, "In Wyoming," is cast in four distinct acts. The first act of the best show yet produced by the company, who acted their respective parts with zeal and enthusiasm.

Mr. Howard R. Macy was very fine as the handsome, fearless Westerner, who finally, single-handed, caught the

CANADIAN SCOTTISH PLANS ACTIVITIES

Winter Season to Be Opened by Regi-

for Tonight

The Winter activities of the Canadian Scottish commence on October 22 with a view to getting the old members of the unit and their friends together. It has been decided to have a regimental smoker this evening at 8:15 p.m. when the regimental brass band, with Bandmaster J. M. Miller, and the regimental pipe band, will be present, and sustain such a programme as should prove thoroughly enjoyable.

The schedule of training which the battalion hopes to carry through during the forthcoming months will be somewhat different to that of last Winter, inasmuch as more time is to be devoted to specialist work, miniature range, Lewis gun—theory and practice, scouting, signalling and first aid. The period of one hour each evening will not be for more than fifteen to twenty minutes.

In addition there is for members of the battalion the excellent club arrangements which the Armory provides, reading room, billiard tables and swimming pool. All ranks of the unit fund their pay and money are thus provided which, in part, will be used to furnish these social rooms and make them more comfortable for members.

Last year the unit placed a team in the rugby league; it met with no success, but the men fought to a finish and with such a spirit and enthusiasm as to bring credit to themselves and to their comrades in the league.

This season the battalion hopes to place its players in the service team, which has been entered in the senior league, and sufficient players join the regimental team to enter a team in the intermediate league.

Last June a number of men went under canvas for fourteen days at Macaulay Point, and, besides doing satisfactory training they had a thoroughly enjoyable time. In 1924 it is hoped to have larger numbers will be able to go into camp.

Every effort should be made to bring a large number of recruits to the Armory on Tuesday, October 16;
the drill season will then start with a swing. There are only twenty-four parade nights, and it is felt it should be possible to attend these without seriously interfering with other engagements.

There are many opportunities for healthy recreation and enjoyably companionship in such a unit as the 14th.
The battalion has a history of distinguished record in the battlefield which men should be proud to uphold.
Service in its ranks should be an inspiration to manhood, and that manhood should prove invaluable to great causes.

Likely Fiscal Battle

Political students of long experience unite in the view that it would principally be the most bitter fiscal battle England has known since Joseph Chamberlain raised the banner of tariff reform.

Lord Rothermere, who by recent purchase has considerably widened his influence, continues to throw the weight of his newspaper against food taxes.

The Sunday Observer welcomed the increase in preferences and complimented Premier Bruce, of Australia, on the "largeness" of his speech, but advised a canny policy on further tariff changes.

"Let us remember," said The Observer, "that Imperial preferences are not to be established without the cooperation of the states of the Empire, and there is to be no war in India and Ireland, whose co-operation has not yet been given. But if these external reasons for cautious procedure
were wanting, conditions in Great Britain are such that haste may well defeat its own ends. Our domestic troubles are grave enough without
the added weight of a controversy which,
as experience taught us many years
ago, would only become embittered."

In the midst of this financial hub-hub, Premier Bruce, whose statement of his five points was a contributing factor, today pressed the argument that one effect of his proposals would be to enable British rural producers to compete with foreign countries.

Asks Common Policy

"Australia is not begging favors for herself," he declared. "We are a prosperous people, but our prosperity for the future is bound up with the common welfare of the entire Empire.
Without that common policy and united action which it predicts, our immeasurable wealth in pastoral, agricultural and mineral resources will remain for the most part undeveloped, while these same avenues will be thoroughly exploited in foreign countries, on which the people of the Empire will depend entirely to supply their vital needs."

Although no definite announcement has yet been made, Premier Bruce, it is learned, may, following the conclusion of the Conference, pay a visit to Canada on his way back to Australia.

One phase of the British Government's Conference is causing speculation among the overseas delegates to the Imperial Economic Conference.
This is with regard to sugar and tobacco, in both of which Canada is interested.

The British Government could not offer an increased preference in sugar, but instead proposed to stabilize the present preference over a period of ten years.

Preference Offered

On unmanufactured tobacco, two alternatives were offered—either stabilization of the existing preference, or an increase in the preference from one-sixteenth to one-fourth.

It is believed that the British Government is in a position to assure stabilization except by formal commercial agreement? If preference is continued merely by act of Parliament, it is argued, a subsequent Parliament, in the event of the defeat of the present Government, might revoke or reduce the preference. It is suggested that a slight modification in the arrangement between the British Government and the Dominions not yet be given. But if these external reasons for cautious procedure
were wanting, conditions in Great Britain are such that haste may well
defeat its own ends. Our domestic troubles are grave enough without
the added weight of a controversy which,
as experience taught us many years
ago, would only become embittered."

The Canadian representatives have not yet prepared any suggestion they may have to offer in the British proposals, but it is anticipated that the two tobacco alternatives they will prefer the one calling for an increased preference in the British markets.

When the Economic Conference
meets again tomorrow, it is probable that consideration will be given to questions of imperial resources and contribution to the imperial Institute before the formal discussion takes place on the British preference proposals.

A committee of the Conference is now considering three of the five points raised by Premier Bruce of Australia early last week, and as these bear on the matter of Empire preference, the Conference probably will wait for any recommendations
the committee may make thereon.

Empire Settlement

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Many suggestions have been submitted to the special committee of the Economic Conference which is now considering the question as to whether the Empire settlement scheme can not be made more workable. In a minor way it is stated that Canada has already tried most of them. One suggestion which is under consideration is to have married women teach the children in the training schools here for British emigrants to prepare themselves in a general way for farm life.

Another suggestion is said to have originated with the Ontario Government that schoolboys should go out under the charge of a responsible teacher for three years. Yet the latter suggestion is adopted. It is thought some agreement might be reached between the Federal and Provincial Governments for following up this work in Canada.

The first recommendation by an Imperial Conference committee will be put before the Canadian Government. One recommendation provides that the whole committee favor the maintenance of the principle of the existing law that the nationality of married women should depend upon her husband. They recommend that power should be taken "to re-admit women to British nationality in cases where the married state, though subsisting, has lasted in all practical purposes come to an end."

CONFERENCE ON EMPIRE DEFENCE

PRESIDENT WEEK WILL SEE IM-PORTANT DEBATES

Imperial Preference Promises to Be Subject of Lively Debate at Meeting of Premiers

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Imperial Conference enters tomorrow on an eventful week. With the conclusion of the debate on foreign affairs, there will open before the main conference the question of Empire defence, a question which is likely to occasion sharp differences of opinion among the various delegations thereto.

Concurrently, the Economic Conference will continue its discussion of the British preference proposals, the Dominion delegates making such suggestions as they may consider proper.

On both subjects the Canadian delegates have held a round table conference with their technical advisers in attendance, and a similar meeting to the discussion on the preference question, the various Canadian agents general resident in London will be invited to express their views on the technical points arising. When these have been obtained, Canada's suggestion will be definitely formulated.

Empire Defence

The subject of Empire defence has so far aroused but little public attention here. An occasional newspaper article and an occasional reference in the news columns of the daily papers all notice it has received. But the continuing discussions following hard on the heels of the debate on the foreign policy will focus attention on it.

The discussion will open, it is understood, by a general statement by the Marquis of Salisbury reviewing the recent developments in the debate on foreign policy, and then all attention will be given to the discussion on the preference question.

Then the Dominion representatives will continue their discussion of the British preference proposals, the Dominion delegates making such suggestions as they may consider proper.

Here's a popular way to serve Kellogg's Bran—greatest health food!

Most every one who realizes how effective Kellogg's Bran is for the permanent relief of constipation has their own particular way of serving this wonderful cereal. Most families eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. Others sprinkle it on their favorite hot or cold cereal. Every one enjoys its nut-like flavor!

If you're trying a hot cereal try this method: Measure out two tablespoons for each member of the family. Mix it with the corn meal cook as you always cook the cereal.

Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared and ready to eat, but its regulatory powers are in no way impaired if you cook it with other cereals.

Kellogg's Bran has won the friendly recommendation of physicians because it does give prompt and permanent relief from mild or chronic constipation and because it can be eaten without forming a habit. Again, Kellogg's Bran will free you from drastic, dangerous cures.

When constipation conditions exist in your system or when you are threatened, do not take half-way measures. Foods with a partial bran content cannot free you! What you must have is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Go the limit; get relief!

Every member of your family will delight in eating Bran raisin bread, muffins, pancakes, mataroons, etc. Recipes on every package.

Start eating Bran to-day! Get well—keep well—keep disease out of your home! First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers.

UNVEIL MEMORIAL ON BATTLE FIELD

Scene of Fight Between U.S. and Canadian Forces in 1812 War
Marked by Monument

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 15.—An impressive ceremony carried out Saturday afternoon, one mile above Chippawa, marked the unveiling and dedication of the monument erected on the battlefield site of the war in 1812. The plan for the monument was furnished by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, active through the Dominion Park Branch and Queen Victoria Park Commission. The Park Commission has control of a considerable portion of the battlefield which is traversed by the boulevard and they will maintain the surroundings.

The ceremony was attended by members of Parliament, historians, clergymen, patriotic organizations, school children.

The site of the monument is the position occupied by the battle line of American troops where the charge of the Royal Scots was made.

Full grown rainbow trout will average more than 5,000 eggs each.

IMMIGRANTS MUST BE PLACED ON LAND

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Oct. 15.—J. Wigzell, M.P., Labor member of a British delegation touring Australia looking into immigration matters, says there is room in Australia for millions more people, but the immigrants must be placed in the country, not in the cities which are already overcrowded.

He says he has found that the Australian labor leaders are not opposed to immigration, but they are against bringing out people indiscriminately and leaving them to shift for themselves in the cities.

No Early Easing of Taxation In Britain

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Oct. 14.—In a speech here Saturday, Neville Chamberlain, Colonial Secretary, said it would be foolish to count on a remission of taxation in the near future, and added:

"We are not yet out of the woods. We have in front a weary and perhaps exhaustive struggle, but I see some hope dawning in the future."

VIEWS LEAGUE FROM HISTORICAL ANGLE

Mr. T. W. Cornett Tells Gyros Successful Forms of Union in Past Based on Common Interest

That the various forms of union throughout history, commencing with the family, and moving up through the tribal, city, state, nation, and groups of nations under treaties, have come about through the force of common interest, and that the League of Nations is simply the logical and most advanced form of union having its genesis through the same power as the others was the theory about which Mr. T. W. Cornett, instructor at the Victoria High School and Victoria College, gave a highly interesting and educational address at the weekly luncheon of the Gyro Club yesterday at the Hudson's Bay Store.

Mr. Cornett made no plea for the League of Nations, but directed his efforts to proving that it was the natural step in the evolution of human society. He was not willing to say whether or not its appearance at this stage was timely or not.

A unique and striking method of illustrating comparative lengths of time throughout history was used by Mr. Cornett, and his audience had to imagine a straight line extending along the eastern wall of the dining room from a point opposite the chairman north into infinity. The end opposite the chairman was to represent 1923, while time extended back along the infinite line to the scale of 10,000 years to the inch.

"Somewhere between here and the George Road," explained Mr. Cornett, "man made his appearance."

Speaks in Fact and Inches

Following up this statement, the speaker pointed his right index finger along the line from 1923 man had made his first weapon, a fist-hatchet of chipped stone, and had used it for the next six feet before passing on to anything better. Five inches ago metal instruments had come into use, man had learned to write, and the calendar was known. Less than two inches ago Jesus of Nazareth had lived. Less than an inch ago South America and Greenland had been shown in maps as part of Asia. A tenth of an inch ago there had been no democracy in the world and no public schools. A twentieth of an inch ago the first public schools had been established in England.

"Now you see," declared Mr. Cornett, "it is just recent that you have come out of barbarism." If the Gyros ever got discouraged, he advised them to draw a line, divide it up into thousands of years on a very small scale, and go back to take a look at their ancestors. That was the technique he gave to those who claimed that civilization was going backward. When he went to school he was told of ancient medieval and modern history, while, as a matter of fact, Plato had lived in modern times.

Mr. Cornett's next step was to trace the growth of international union from the earliest known times. This had first been the family and these had united later into tribes. Following this had come the city states, after which nations had come into existence. These, in turn, had united into groups under treaties. The League of Nations was the latest and largest form of union.

Common Interest Is Cause

How had these various forms of union come about? asked the speaker. Common interest was the answer. In it lay the kernel of cause. Three thousand years before the birth of Christ the Egyptians on the banks of the Nile had learned from their methods of securing a livelihood to become farmers. They depended upon the Nile for their irrigation, each village having its own dam and dikes. Villages had attacked the dams and dikes of each other for their own advantage, but it was found that this method was good. Then it was found that villages were combined into states, and states in turn fought, doing to each other what tribe had done to tribe. Finally states had united with states. All this had been brought about through a common interest, which, in this instance, was the Nile.

To America had come Pilgrim Fathers, Puritans, Quakers, Catholics and Cavaliers. They wanted to get away from persecution in England, but there was no love lost between the different groups. Still the common interest, which a desire for the securing and maintenance of liberty provided, had bound them together and had resulted ultimately in the United States of America.

Where force had brought about union without the necessary interest, the bond had not been lasting. The empires of Alexander and the Caesars had been shattered because of the lack of a binding force. The League of Nations said, said Mr. Cornett, asking his audience whether it had the binding force essential to permanency. The League had not come about through force. It had not been foisted on the world. It was the expression of some of the world's best minds.

In the days of Alfred the Great, Alfred the Great, it had been suggested that the British Empire of today, speaking a common language, would come into existence, the prophecy would have been without support. Such a plan bristled with obstacles. So did that of the League of Nations, but too much attention should not be paid to the Cohesive Forces?

Were there common material factors to provide the cohesive force for the League of Nations? asked the speaker. He suggested that his audience try to think of a world in which atomic, electricity, and other modern powers were eliminated.

Was there the common interest intellectually? Mr. Cornett referred to the number of students studying in countries not their own, and to the number of international organizations.

Were there sufficient contacts on the religious or national plane? The speaker told of the broadening of mind in this direction.

He saw as the two great obstacles to the League racial antipathy and the inequality of standards of living. Hatred was a relic of barbarism, asserted Mr. Cornett. The most civilized man did not hate the people of another nation.

The world was economically entangled and required a concomitant political organization, concluded the speaker. An attempt had been made to create one. Whether it was timely or not, he would not venture an opinion.

A short address was given by Gyro Rowe Holland, Vancouver, vice-president of the International organization of Gyro.

Gyro Harold Beckwith asked for further suggestions to the committee investigating the matter of a club objective.

Mr. W. Durrant favored the club with a pleasing vocal solo, Gyro Chris Wade accompanying at the piano.

SECOND POWER LINE PLANNED BY B.C.E.R.

Surveys Begin—Will Provide City
With Light and Power Despite Winter Breakdowns

Surveys have been commenced by the British Columbia Electric Railway for a new transmission line from Jordan River to Vancouver. In the event of breakdowns of the present service, not unlikely events under winter weather conditions, the new line, on completion, will be an alternative carrier of light and power to the city, the lines together ensuring continuity of service to consumers. It will serve the further purpose of meeting industrial expansion in the territory served by the B.C.E.R.

Particulars of the company's plans were made public yesterday by General Superintendent G. M. Tripp. The cost will be about $150,000. The work will proceed during the winter, and will be completed next summer. Much of the labor will be unskilled, and the account will probably give employment to a considerable number of men who would otherwise be idle.

The scheme calls for the new line to run from Humpback bridge, south of Humpback reservoir, through Brooks to Jordan River, a distance of thirty-five miles, and the reconstruction of six miles of "dead" line from the bridge northward to Finlayson Arm. Connection from the northern end of the reconstructed line at Finlayson Arm will be made to a steam plant at Brentwood by a line across the Highland district.

SAYS ASTRONOMERS ROMANCE OF SCIENCE

Dr. Ambrose Swasey, Notable Among Astronomical Engineers, Visits
Victoria and Telescope

anything the size of the 72-inch mirror at the Victoria Observatory could be cast. He recalled that the Bureau of Standards had been doing more than any other concern in America toward the perfection of glass.

Larger Telescopes

And what would be the significance of the additional inches, he was asked. It would simply mean that science could investigate fainter objects beyond those already investigated. The theory of the system had been pretty well established. No one expected any very revolutionary facts to be discovered. But there were things which lay just beyond the range of present investigation which a larger instrument might solve.

Curiously enough the greater proportion of astronomical investigations were made with such simple telescopes as the atmosphere always had to be taken into consideration.

"If we could erect our telescopes up above the atmosphere we would be that much the happier, that much the more independent."

Dr. Swasey left on the Sunday afternoon boat for Seattle, en route for Cleveland. On his visit here he was accompanied by cousin, Miss Swasey. Dr. Swasey, whose name has always been associated in the hearts of Victoria people with that of the late Dr. Brashears, who also had a great deal to do with the 72-inch telescope, is like Dr. Brashears, a philanthropist and traveller. He has been around the world more than once, and has visited countries both in the Orient and Occident in connection with the promotion of astronomical instruments and observatories and colleges. He has received honorary degrees on several occasions, and has been decorated by France with the Legion of Honor.

Film mars beauty

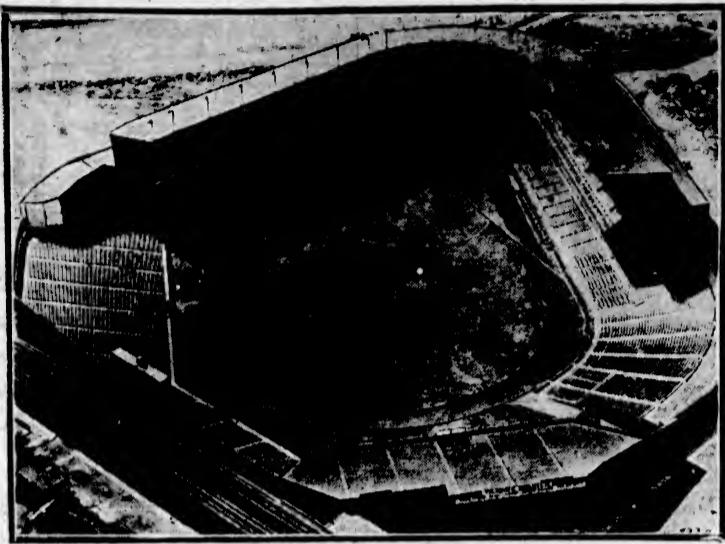

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. You can feel it now. Under old-way brushing, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. Teeth thus lose their beauty and last longer.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Under old methods, those caused troubles became almost universal.

The dental science found two ways to fight film. One dis-

NEW BLUE FUNNEL SHIP COMING OUT

DIOMEDE TO ENGAGE IN TRANS-PACIFIC SERVICE

Vessel Is New and Fast—Named After Ship Sunk by Submarines During the War

The Diomedes, one of the Blue Funnel Line's recent additions to its big fleet, will come out to the Pacific shortly to operate in the company's trans-Pacific service. The vessel was last reported at Baltimore, whence it was supposed to sail yesterday for the Panama Canal en route to this vicinity. As far as is known, none of the ships at present engaged in the Pacific trade is to be withdrawn, so the company will have five steamers on the route with the arrival of the Diomedes, an indication of increasing business across the Pacific. The newcomer is rated one of the fastest carriers flying the Blue Funnel flag, and is expected here early in November.

The new ship is 402 feet long and has a beam of 42 feet. She is of 10,354 gross tons, with a capacity for 13,540 deadweight tons. In command of the Diomedes is Capt. W. Clark, who is making his first voyage to Victoria in the Blue Funnel service.

In addition to being a modern freighter every particular attention has been given to the comfort of sixteen first cabin passengers as well as spacious steerage quarters for third classers.

The Blue Funnel Line steamship Onata, which was one of the three original vessels placed in service between Victoria and the Orient in 1903, when the line was started, is loading into the United States for Canada.

The lake steamer was moving down the river when the accident happened. The rowboat was traveling without lights and was not discernible. Unaware of any accident, the steamer continued on its course.

commander of the ship about eighteen months ago, and was assigned to the Onata, which was operating from New York to the Orient.

Small Boat Run Down; Six Men are Drowned

DETROIT, Oct. 15.—A six

Armenians in a rowboat, piloted by a Canadian whose identity is not known, were drowning in the Detroit River between River Rouge and Ecorse, Mich., early today, when an unidentified steamer struck the small craft and precipitated its human cargo into the water. The Canadian pilot was drowned. Government immigration authorities expressed the belief that the Armenians were being smuggled into the United States from Canada.

The lake steamer was moving down the river when the accident happened. The rowboat was traveling without lights and was not discernible. Unaware of any accident, the steamer continued on its course.

OFFICERS BITTER OVER SHIPWRECK

CREW OF KENNECOTT LANDED AT KETCHIKAN

TOO MUCH AMERICANISM, TOO LITTLE SCAMANSHIP RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS OF VESSEL, IS CHARGE

KETCHIKAN, Oct. 15.—Twenty-five men of the crew of the motorship Kennebennet, wrecked Monday night in Kano Inlet, a mile inside Hunter Point, at the southwest corner of Graham Island, have been landed here by the cutter Unalaska.

Following instructions "to keep the course given" at the change of the watch Monday night, was said by Third Officer W. C. Cover, of the Kennebennet, to be the cause of the stranding of the vessel.

"I struck the rock at 11:55 p.m. Monday when we hit," said Cover. "I had gone to watch at 8 p.m. and was given the course which I understood would keep us off shore twenty-five miles. When we struck, my first impression was that we had collided with another ship."

"I had no idea we were so near shore. The night was now foggy or stormy. Nothing could be seen ahead, as a heavy swell was flooding inshore. We could not hear the breaking of waves on the rocks, as the sea made too much noise against the sides of our ship. I did not sight land at any time."

Second Officer P. F. Kisenan charged that Captain John Johnson, master of the Kennebennet, kept the ship "locked in his desk so other officers could not see them." He declared that the wreck was due to "too much 100 per cent sailor" Kisenan stated that he was master of a German vessel seven years ago.

Third Mate Praised

SEATTLE, Oct. 15.—Twenty-four members of the crew of the motorship Kennebennet, which was wrecked after grounding last week on Graham Island of the Queen Charlotte group, arrived here today on the steamer Alameda and Jefferson. Survivors were taken off the Kennebennet by the United States coast guard cutter Unalaska, Michigan, where they were transferred to the two steamers. Captain John Johnson and eight men are still at the scene of the wreck aboard the steamship Cordova.

Members of the crew gave the credit of establishing a life-line from ship to large rock and thence to land in boats that swept completely over the downed Kennebennet, to W. C. Cover, third officer, and son of L. C. Cover, observer for the United States weather bureau in Tacoma, and several of his companions who fearfully worked their way through the wreckage to the rock, according to crew members.

SIDNEY-BELLINGHAM SERVICE TO REMAIN

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE EXPRESSES GRATIFICATION AT DECISION TO RETAIN FERRY SERVICE

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has no intention of withdrawing the Sidney-Bellingham ferry service, according to a report submitted to the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce yesterday, by Mr. George Warren, secretary. Mr. Warren stated that he had taken the question up last week with Captain J. W. Troup, manager of the British Columbia coast steamship service, and Mr. W. H. Snell, general passenger agent at Vancouver, and they had been emphatic in stating that the service would not be discontinued.

Captain Troup had not outlined the plans of the company in regard to the service, added Mr. Warren.

Mr. Troup emphasized the dispatch of a letter to Captain Troup expressing the Chamber's gratification at the company's decision to retain the ferry service.

Both sides report satisfaction with conditions.
